Desire to Retire Strengthened

World Situation Depresses Thant

By LOUIE E. FLEMING
UNITED NATIONS (LAT)—Secretary General U Thant is unusually depressed and discouraged about the world situation and the peacekeeping role of the United Nations.

leagues expect him to bow to the realities of the situation and agree to continue as secretary general. He is particularly discouraged now by two old problems and one new one:

● The inability to make a constructive move toward settling the war in Viet Nam, which he regards as the ultimate problem.

● The postponement by the French of a voluntary contribution to the United Nations, although there may be second thoughts in Paris when Thant sees President Charles de Gaulle on April 30.

● The failure of UN peacekeeping missions to achieve political solutions, particularly in Cyprus.

Thant hinted broadly at his depression in his press conference last week. It was a desultory affair. He appeared almost apathetic on some issues, spoke quite frankly about his failures in three years of peace efforts in Southeast Asia and spoke with particular conviction when he said he would be glad to step aside if another secretary general could be found.

Miner Dead

TRAIL (CP)—A miner died at the 2,000-foot level of the Johnaby Mine at nearby Silverton Tuesday and police said lack of oxygen was the apparent cause.

Only IWA Man, Son Ever Aided Spencer

VANCOUVER (CP)—George Victor Spencer believed nobody ever helped him except a man—and his son—he identified as an executive of the Communist Party of Canada.

Spencer felt his life was a nightmare of bureaucratic red tape. And aside from the man and his son "I cannot remember anyone giving me a helping hand," he wrote shortly before his death. Spencer's handwritten notes were disclosed Tuesday by E. Jervis Bloomfield, a postal employee here who was collaborating with Spencer to produce a booklet.

Spencer, 61, an accused spy, was found dead in his house Saturday night only four days before a judicial inquiry was to open into his disappearance from the post office here.

The booklet was to be a document of what Spencer called his 20-year battle with government red tape, and was to be distributed through labor unions and on newstands, said Bloomfield.

Next Move To Be Buddhist

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP)—The next move in South Viet Nam's political struggle appears to be up to the Buddhists. There is little doubt the Buddhists are ready to make it, perhaps as a show of force.

The military government pledged Tuesday to hold elections for a civilian regime as soon as a constitution is drafted and the voting machinery set up. But the Buddhists boycotted the preparatory congress at which the offer was made.

HALF DELEGATES

Only 92 delegates, roughly half the number invited, showed up.

Knowledgeable political quarters said there is no indication the congress opened the way for any solution.

NO CONFIDENCE

Before boycotting the congress, leaders of the unified Buddhist struggle group declared they have no confidence in promises of the military government headed by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and Nguyen Van Thieu, chiefs of state.

PROCEDURE TAKES TIME

The Buddhists are demanding the election of a civilian government "in a very short time." The military leaders have said they are willing to turn over power to an elected, representative government, but that working out the procedures and holding elections will take time.

IN SIX MONTHS

Top government officials talk in terms of completing such action in six months. There is no indication the Buddhists are willing to wait that long.

Addressing the opening session of the congress, Thieu said:

"If the people want to have an elected government in the shortest time possible, this desire is also ours."

"It is not our policy to go against the aspirations of the people."

Red Chinese Pilots Down U.S. Plane

TOKYO (AP)—China accused the United States today of aerial attacks on Chinese fishing boats and said its air force downed a U.S. military plane over the Chinese mainland.

In Washington, the defence department announced a U.S. Navy KA-3B tanker plane was downed on a flight from the Philippines to South Viet Nam, but did not refer to the Chinese claim. The U.S. announcement did not acknowledge the plane was lost.

A broadcast by the official New China news agency said the U.S. aircraft, described as an KA-3B attack plane, was downed Tuesday. It made no mention of crew.

The KA-3B normally has a crew of three. Peking said the U.S. plane was shot down over Luichow Peninsula, Kwangtung Province, which faces North Viet Nam across the Gulf of Tonkin.

U.S. defence department sources said if the tanker plane

Voyages in Space

Hibernation Coming for Man?

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A space scientist reported Tuesday that new experiments with hibernating hamsters raise hope for eventually inducing temporary hibernating powers in man for long space voyages and for food conservation during times of famine.

Dr. R. R. Chaffee of the University of Missouri's Space

Science Research Centre also said that an ability to make men go into hibernation and slow their bodies' demands by cooling them could greatly extend the time available for surgeons in performing critical operations.

He told about it in a report to the opening of the convention of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology—a convocation of nearly 20,000 scientists.

Declaring the Syrian hamster is the only inbred hibernating laboratory animal—but that not all of them have such powers—Dr. Chaffee told of genetic experiments in which the ability to hibernate gradually was increased over several generations in some families and reduced in others.

He said this suggests that only a few hereditary genes may be involved in the hibernation process, and further suggests the possibility of producing a race of hamsters which would all be hibernators and another race lacking any power to go into hibernating sleep.

400 Passengers

Nuclear Blimp New Liner in Sky?

By BRYAN SILOOCK

LONDON — What could carry 400 passengers and cargo across the Atlantic in 40 hours, provide state rooms with private baths, a cinema, a cocktail lounge and a 15-story ride by lift to "a ballroom beneath the skies," and go many times round the world without refuelling? Answer: A nuclear blimp.

Prof. Francis Morse, of Boston University and some colleagues have completed a design study of a giant nuclear-powered airship and conclude that for transporting light but bulky cargoes it would have unique advantages.

Nuclear power would give a big savings in weight, the reactor, its shielding, and the gas turbines would weigh less than the fuel alone of a conventionally powered airship.

In an article in the New Scientist he says of the big airships of the 'thirties: "They were not big enough, the largest lying just at the threshold of efficient performance." His 980-foot long design has almost twice the volume of the Hindenburg, and at over 80 tons, the payload is quadrupled. The use of non-inflammable helium instead of hydrogen would rule out disastrous fires like the one that destroyed the Hindenburg.

Passenger accommodation and cargo space are inside the hull, instead of suspended below it as in earlier airships. Propulsion is by two huge propellers at the tail. A cruising speed of 95 miles an hour compared with the Hindenburg's 70.

Inside the hull there is also hangar space for an 18-seater aircraft for ferrying passengers to and from the airship while it is in full flight—an idea pioneered by the U.S. Navy 25 years ago.

"For low density freight such as small aircraft, motor cars and other bulky manufactured equipment, the airship would offer lowest per-ton-mile costs between factory and destination," says Prof. Morse. The reactor, claims the professor, could be made strong enough to withstand a crash without releasing dangerous radioactive products.

Into Tanks

Ioanna V To Pump Oil Today

BEIRA, Mozambique (Reuters)—The Greek tanker Ioanna V will begin pumping half of its oil into storage tanks here today, informed shipping sources said.

The sources said it was intended to pump the oil into the new storage tanks being built in the dock area and not directly into the 189-mile pipeline leading from Beira to Rhodesia's Umfolosi refinery.

There was no official confirmation here that the Ioanna, focal point of Britain's efforts to prevent oil from reaching breakaway Rhodesia, would begin discharging its cargo.

RUSH TANKS

But the sources said an all-out effort was being made to finish construction of the dock storage tanks to accommodate 9,600 tons of the Ioanna's 18,000-ton cargo of crude oil.

A tight security net was thrown around the ship as the Panamanian flag was run up and English lettering of the vessel's name painted on the bows over the Greek symbols.

GREECE ACTS

The Ioanna V berthed here Monday after riding at anchor in the harbor for a week. The Greek government cancelled her registration because she came to this Portuguese African port despite international sanctions aimed at keeping land-locked Rhodesia from getting oil.

The sanctions were applied against Rhodesia after the white-minority ruled British colony seized independence Nov. 11.

SEARCH FOR VALVE

Reliable sources here said a search was on for a reduction valve which would connect the Ioanna V to the 189-mile pipeline across Mozambique to Rhodesia and allow the ship to discharge her cargo.

In Panama City, however, the Panama foreign ministry announced Tuesday night it was

Criminal Declared Habitual

Thirty-year-old John Normal Lawrence Smith was declared a habitual criminal by Magistrate J. A. Byers in central court Tuesday.

Magistrate Byers delayed signing the judgment until today after defence counsel Ian Stewart asked for an opportunity to speak before sentence.

PROTECT PUBLIC

Magistrate Byers said in his judgment: "It is expedient for the protection of the public to sentence him to preventive detention."

Mr. Stewart then asked for an opportunity to speak concerning the length of the detention.

Preventive detention is for an indefinite period and can be appealed every seven years.

SEVERE TERM

Smith is serving four years for an attempted break-in at Montagu Bridgeman Ltd., 811 Government. He was sentenced in January, 1965.

The habitual proceedings were instigated against Smith two months later, but were delayed while Smith appealed the sentence. The appeal was eventually dismissed.

The Crown has to show, in habitual proceedings, that a person has had three convictions for indictable offences for which he was liable to five years imprisonment.

CONVICTIONS

The Crown said Smith had been convicted of rape in 1955, and breaking and entering, and possession of housebreaking and safe breaking tools in 1962.

Magistrate Byers said: "He has shown a consistent criminal pattern of life, with alternate periods of imprisonment and short periods of liberty."

WITH CRIMINALS

Smith had also kept company with known criminals, Magistrate Byers said.

The hearing will continue today when prosecutor T. P. O'Grady will be present.

Two men took to their heels when their stolen car smashed into a power pole and guy wire at McKenzie and Glenford early Tuesday morning.

Wayne Graham, 21, 1516 Camosun, and Wayne Flegg, 23, 3280 Cook, were located soon afterward and both pleaded guilty Tuesday to theft of a car. Graham also pleaded guilty to dangerous driving and driving without a licence.

BOTH REMANDED

They were remanded to April 20 for a pre-sentence report.

Constable Ronald Conte said the pair took the car from Washington's BA service station, Johnson and Wharf, Monday night.

They accelerated on Quadra when they saw the police car, Constable Conte said.

CRASHED INTO POLE
When they crashed into the pole, Flegg ran past the police car and into a field, court was told. He was found hiding behind a hedge.

Graham was found hiding shortly afterward.

When Harold Walcott was released from Veterans' Hospital, last December, he forgot about his $175 wristwatch, which he had left in a pajama coat pocket.

But when he went to visit a friend last month, he recognized the watch on the wrist of orderly Hugh McIntyre.

PLEADS GUILTY

McIntyre, 3245 Maplewood, pleaded guilty to stealing the watch and was remanded to April 20 for a pre-sentence report.

Det. Charles Truett said McIntyre had discarded an expansion band worth $25 and replaced it with a leather strap.

Richard Cool made a delivery to Heaney Cartage and Storage Ltd., 3300 Douglas, Jan. 19 and took $465 worth of tools.

Cool, 893 Swan, pleaded guilty to theft over $50 and was remanded to April 20 for a pre-sentence report.

Cool went to Elk Lake, removed $150 worth of the tools and threw the rest into the water, court was told. All the tools were recovered.

A second conviction for impaired driving meant 21 days in jail for James Helm, 3460 Bon Air.

Helm, who pleaded guilty, attracted police attention when he went through a red light on Pandora early Sunday morning. He had been convicted in 1964 of the same offence.

William Lindsay of Waas Lake was fined $50 for causing a disturbance at the Halfway House, 856 Esquimalt, Monday night.

Lindsay was in a fight and later yelled when police arrived, court was told.

Hercumb Singh Bains, 3117 Stevenson, was fined $300 and his licence was suspended. He had been found guilty of impaired driving last month.

Woman Found In Sea

Police are still trying to identify the body of an elderly woman found floating in the water off Dallas Road near Beacon Hill Park Tuesday morning.

The police have not received any reports of missing women that match the description of the body.

The woman, about 70, was five feet four inches tall, weighed 120 pounds, and wore a small gold wedding band.

Labor Voter Registration Cards Blocked

The provincial government has effectively blocked the B.C. Federation of Labor from printing its own voter registration cards for the next provincial election.

The federation, which printed 200,000 registration cards for the snap election held in September, 1963, will not be able to duplicate the new card and now has less than a month to use up all its old ones.

The government's new card has a provincial crest at the top and a line which states: "This card is printed and issued under the authority of the Chief Electoral Officer for British Columbia."

IN 30 DAYS

And a provincial cabinet order made public Tuesday states that all old cards will be valid only if they are filled within 30 days from the date of approval of the order.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes approved the order last Thursday and the effective deadline will be Friday, May 6.

Labor and New Democratic Party spokesmen voiced suspicion of the government's motives for producing the new cards.

B.C. Federation of Labor president E. T. Staley of Victoria warned that if the chief electoral officer failed to provide sufficient registration cards, "we will again do whatever we can to assist the people get registered."

E. P. O'Neal of Vancouver, secretary-treasurer of the federation, said his group would do everything it could to avert a registration crisis such as the one which occurred during the last election.

The 1963 election was called so unexpectedly that the government offices did not have enough cards to meet the demand, he said.

STILL HAS CARDS

The federation printed a total of 200,000 cards at a cost of "close to $5,000," and still had about 40,000 cards stored away in its Vancouver office, Mr. O'Neal said.

In view of the 30-day deadline for use of the old cards, the federation will recommend that its affiliates "get a registration campaign going immediately."

"If there are adequate cards, we certainly have no objection, because if the government goes ahead and does the job we won't have to do it," Mr. O'Neal said.

But in addition to providing the new cards, the government should "start a conscious campaign to interest people in registering," he said.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said from Vancouver that a province-wide enumeration should be held before the next election.

If an enumeration is not held, the government should make certain enough registration cards are made available so the people are not denied their right to vote, he said.

Chief Electoral Officer Frederick Hurley said Tuesday that the Queen's Printer in Victoria was already distributing 1,000,000 or more of the new cards to voters registrars' offices throughout B.C.

He said the new cards would be available through the local offices to any political parties that want to use them.

Captive Cabinet

IT DOES NOT strain the imagination to discern the emergence of a disturbing pattern in the national government's decisions with respect to old and honored symbols which are a part of our short history.

We have accepted, many with reluctance, some with anger and even more with grave misgivings, the decisions of a Liberal administration to radically alter the composition of the military establishment.

We have seen with dismay the compulsory retirement of highly skilled and experienced men and the development of a situation which approaches demoralization in the air arm of our defence system.

Many felt very keenly the arbitrary replacement of the ensigns which had designated the services, and were a part of the tradition so laboriously and gallantly fabricated. For so many more the sad chapter of the national flag is best forgotten; but it is a part of the record.

We are now confronted with the decision of the Liberal government that the designation "HMCS" will be abandoned in favor of "CFB" for the establishment at Esquimalt. In fact, all military establishments will lose their previous identification in the name of integration.

How soon must we expect the dropping of "Her Majesty's" and the "Royal Canadian" prefixes? This, too, would be a logical development of the Liberal design which seems to be taking shape: the intimation of a leaning towards republicanism, exemplified in the attitude of elements of the Young Liberals and sporadic demonstrations in Quebec.

Just how strong this republican trend may be it is difficult to determine; but there is no doubt of its existence.

For the sake of survival, the Liberal government must bear in mind those expedients which will best guarantee support from Quebec. Without it they must face immediate defeat. And in the longer view also they must retain substantial Quebec backing. It would follow, therefore, that we can expect a continuing policy of appeasement, and, if the pressure against Canada's continuing royal and loyal associations is strong enough, a radical departure from the constitutional foundation of our confederation.

For most Canadians this is surely an intolerable prospect.

The accumulation of large and small affronts and indignities suffered by so many in this country will ultimately alienate a proportion of the electorate sufficient to bring about a change. In the meantime, particularly in the West, we can do little more than watch and wait. We cannot expect much consideration from a government so obviously captive to its own ambition. After all, in the country this side of Ontario, what have the Liberals got to lose?

Fighting Forces Fun?

NOW THAT HMCS (Her Majesty's Canadian Ship) Naden has become CFB (Canadian Forces Base) Esquimalt, Canadians might be well advised to brace themselves for further similar changes in the very near future.

As the navy seems to be Defence Minister Paul Hellyer's favorite target these days, it would not be too far-fetched to expect his department to announce a complete re-titling of all naval barracks and sea-going ships now bearing the HMCS identification.

Indeed it might easily be anticipated that all non-fighting naval vessels will henceforth be known as CFFBs (Canadian Forces Floating Bases), all fighting ships as CFFBs (Canadian Forces Floating Fighting Bases), except Bonaventure which will be CFFB (Canadian Forces Floating Fighting Flying Base).

A Weakness Exposed

MR. MONTY ALDOUS, general manager of B.C. Ferries, is probably right in saying that his service is doing all it can to handle the peak traffic that develops on every holiday weekend.

The four ships which are currently providing a minimum hourly service between Tsawwassen and Swartz Bay, are ample to meet all ordinary requirements, and are beaten only on a few peak periods in each year.

Last weekend was one on which they were badly overwhelmed. The traffic at Tsawwassen on Thursday evening was so heavy that late extra ferries had to be run. On Friday the traffic backed up on the mainland side leaving car passengers who drove up in mid-morning five hours to wait before embarking.

Despite their annoyance at the delay most customers readily admitted that once aboard the ferry service was fast, efficient and comprehensive. Catering and other facilities were good, even under pressure.

Unfortunately the same cannot be said of the service rendered at the terminals. Both at Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen the snack bars inside the compound are small and distinctly unattractive. At the weekend they were not even particularly clean—not surprising in view of the volume of traffic.

Further the snack bars are within the compounds, and those waiting motorists who are lined up outside cannot use them until they have paid their fare.

Even worse is the plight of persons at the Tsawwassen end where the single car line-up outside the compound at Friday's peak was estimated to be over three miles long. For those at the end, the nearest restaurant and comfort station was that long distance away. For families with young children it raised unnecessary inconvenience, if not distress.

The B.C. Ferry Authority may claim that it is providing the best schedule it can, and that to build more ships would not solve the problem entirely.

But if the ships cost more than $3,000,000 each to build, a tiny fraction of that sum could provide a comfort station and at least a hot-dog stand somewhere along the long Tsawwassen causeway, or better still two or three of them.

It is time the ferry authority admitted its responsibility for those who through no fault of their own are condemned to sit and wait, hour after hour.

"Who needs an umbrella when it isn't raining?"

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and sailing was ...
By TOM TAYLOR

THE last I heard of him he was said to be backspacing in Dorset, or was it Somerset, but according to a news dispatch from Alpine regions Sherlock Holmes has moved to Switzerland.

I have the most famous fictional detective of all time on my bookshelf, in two compact volumes, although, I fear, I haven't paid him the devotion he deserves. So, I don't remember whether he ever pursued a criminal to Switzerland.

Anyway, that's his abode from now on. His creator's son has set up Holmes' Baker Street sitting room as the centrepiece of a permanent exhibition sure to add to the lure of Swiss tourist folders. If he isn't there when visitors call, the redoubtable Sherlock will probably be out somewhere on a case.

All the familiar items associated with the Baker Street sleuth have been lifted from Conan Doyle's pages and given reality. His violin, his cane, despatcher cap, a glowing fireplace, his pen, his pipe—they're all there.

Holmes was totally unlike his modern successors, of course. He didn't race around like James Bond in a high-powered car, having to be content with a hansom cab driven by someone else. He didn't, like the Batman who probably would send him to his cocaine box or to a lament on his violin, have electronics to aid him. He didn't carry a gun. He just had his mind.

Now that he's finally shown up again in a Swiss castle he's likely to outlast more than ever all the ilk that came after him. Holmes was a very small boy and I doubt I paid much attention to him, but he began to be infected by a lesser colleague, Sexton Blake, who never as far as I know got between hard covers but whose weekly "penny dreadful" appearance nevertheless satisfied my who-dun-it appetite.

Both Holmes and Blake, however, had one thing in common that sets them much apart from their modern counterparts. They didn't bother much with the opposite sex.

Now this of course was at direct variance with the "form" of the sleuths who inhabit not castles in Switzerland but the printed accounts of their doings or the television screens of almost any night. The latter are striking exponents of what you might call the instant kiss. Immediately they meet them whether as byplay or in search of evidence, the damsels fall right into their arms.

I seem to remember though that Blake was not totally disinterested. One of his recurring opponents was a lady of charm named Yvonne, and while I was too young to appreciate all the nuances I gathered he viewed her with some fondness. He didn't for instance deal so harshly with her as he did with George Marston Plummer.

Holmes and Blake missed out, you see, on the philosophy of coedation at first sight. Sherlock, in fact, could only be a mystery merely by sitting back in his easy chair, tip of his fingers together or deducing to the strains of his violin—without ever seeing a damsel let alone getting to close quarters.

Now he is back within the old familiar setting but in a new location. So long as he doesn't try to chase anyone up the north face of the Elger he should be with us for a long time yet. If like himself Professor Moriarty comes to life again he can let his arch-villain try to escape via that route. That would probably put paid to the professor and close another case.

Monarchy in Jeopardy

Greece Plagued by Strikes

By THOMAS LAND
from Athens

ALL Greek newspaper employees are shortly to go on strike for higher pay for the second time within a month.

In so doing, they will follow the unions of butchers, bakers, bus drivers, building workers, garbage collectors, civil engineers, telecommunication operators, forest specialists, veterinarians, school teachers and many others whose sympathetic strikes have held the nation in an economic grip since early this year.

Obviously, each strike supports claims for higher remuneration, generally justified by the relatively low living standards here. But the current wave of withdrawal of labor accentuates a political unrest whose gravity endangers the very foundations of democracy.

Last February, the strikes approached a general work stoppage throughout the nation in which, even the prison wardens' union threatened to participate. Had the crisis not been averted at the last minute, the army would have had no alternative but to seize the government and establish a temporary dictatorship.

The basic domestic issue in the future of the Greek monarchy, King Constantine, whose brief rule so far has been beset by violent demonstrations and even fist fights in parliament, is facing Opposition Leader George Papandreu, a veteran politician who appears to command popular support in the country.

But this 78-year-old former prime minister is openly regarded as a mere tool by the outlawed Communist party which believes to enjoy considerable financial support from Moscow.

Thus the monarchy question here acquires international significance. Greece, Canada's partner in NATO, suffered a civil war between 1946 and 1949 during which the Communist forces closely approached full control.

Today, some 100,000 Greek Communist exiles are awaiting their return to this country from behind the Iron Curtain. And the clumsy attempts by the present regime to stifle all criticism can only reinforce the Communists' potential support by the people.

The government of Prime Minister Stefanos Stefanopoulos rules with a parliamentary majority of only two, in constant danger of defeat. During the past eight months, it has been unable to bring a single piece of major legislation through the House of Deputies.

Yet the king refuses to allow new elections if they would sweep Papandreu back to power with an overwhelming majority.

Such crisis administration at home allows no room for a firm foreign policy. There have been some signs of forthcoming improvements in Greek-Turkish relations; but they are unlikely to be significant if, indeed, they are to come about. Athens' blacklisting with Nicolas over the command of Greek troops in Cyprus could also drag on indefinitely.

And so will, in all probability, the Greek-Turkish friction in Cyprus where Canadian and other forces in the international peace-keeping operation have recently been given an extended mandate by the United Nations for a further three-month period.

Yet the international problems facing Greece are dwarfed at home by the steady deterioration of the national economy, now greatly accelerated by the wave of strikes.

The present administration has succeeded in chasing the economic wolf away from its doors temporarily by obtaining loans from abroad. It will, however, return. This year's budget allows nearly $100 million for repayments of, and interest on, past loans—a huge sum for this tiny and impoverished nation.

The current political crisis here exploded last July when King Constantine removed Papandreu from office as prime minister. The reason is still obscure. It appears that a group of army officers formed a secret anti-royalist organization with connections reaching as high as the cabinet.

All leading officers involved were arrested—but their court-martial has been indefinitely delayed, despite popular protest.

Papandreu's strong Centre Union party was split over the King Constantine's deposition. Defecting to the new Right wing administration appointed by the king. However, the present coalition government still commands the support of only 152 members in the 300-seat House of Deputies. And it takes great political skill effectively to run a country with such a razor-edge parliamentary majority.

The king's intervention in government provoked eight weeks of violent public demonstrations, proudly described by Papandreu as the Greek voter's spontaneous response to the monarchy's insult to democracy. The first two administrations appointed by the king failed in rapid succession with a parliamentary vote of non-confidence.

King Constantine said at the time: "Under the present circumstances, elections are impossible and the mandate to form a new government cannot possibly be given to Papandreu." The king has not changed his mind.

Stefanopoulos' government, a third attempt by the king to provide an alternative to the Centre Union administration, has managed to survive without real power. And the angry opposition leader today is awaiting his chance at the next elections which, under the constitution, could be delayed until February 16, 1968.

His fortunes at the polls may well depend on whether the Greek voter will still remember July's developments—and whether he will still care about them.

It is therefore Papandreu's interest to keep the crisis going by prolonging a virtual deadlock in parliament and encouraging the strikes and public unrest throughout Greece.

An electoral victory for Papandreu would be interpreted as the rejection of the king by his people, inevitably raising the question whether the monarchy should be continued.

And, until recently, the odds were strongly in Papandreu's favor. In Parliament, the weak government faced a well-organized opposition, comprising 128 of Papandreu's faithful deputies.

Outside the House of Deputies, Papandreu was also supported by the Communists in strikes and demonstrations. But it was believed that they merely jumped on the veteran politician's bandwagon.

An article published recently in the World Marxist Review, however, alters the picture. Written by a leading Greek Communist, it seeks to match all credit from Papandreu for the organization of the national resistance to the king's measures last summer. And it describes the Centre Union leader as a mere tool for guiding power for the Communist party in Greece.

It is a well established Communist tactic in Western Europe publicly to lend support to parliamentary candidates unpopular with the Communists in order to block their way to success.

An overwhelming electoral victory by Papandreu would give Greece a strong non-Communist government to replace a weak one. Stefanopoulos' sterile administration furthers the aims of Communism in Greece today a great deal more than a Papandreu government would after the elections.

Frequent arrests of Communist suspects and the exiling of Communist leaders to picturesque but far-away Greek islands rob the country of the very freedom which the nation's rulers are trying so desperately to save from the Communists.

Freedom, as understood in the Western world, is the individual and collective right for choice in both public and private affairs. It is destroyed when—as in this country—one must sacrifice for it such elementary liberties as the right to free speech.

And anti-Communist tyranny provides a hotbed for Communist influence. The article in the World Marxist Review created a fury in the Greek press, considerably reducing Papandreu's chances at the polls. Yet the continued postponement of the elections suggests that Papandreu's opposition regard him still as a formidable rival.

What, then, of the future? The government here is hoping to introduce proportional representation at the next election, reducing the likelihood of the emergence of a substantial majority party. This could keep Papandreu away from the prime minister's office forever, but may result in a new, more effective, coalition government.

And M. H. wins? Papandreu has promised to restore what he calls "the proper functioning of crowned democracy in which the king reigns—and the people rule."

The third alternative is the worst. It is the continuation of the present non-government.

British troops faced a defiant mob of Indians 47 years ago today in 1919—in Amritsar, Punjab state. A series of riots throughout northwest India had occurred and public meetings were prohibited by the British authorities. When the crowd refused to disperse, General Dwyer ordered the troops to fire. A total of 379 men and women were killed and 1,208 injured. This carnage caused a wave of horror throughout India and Britain. Gen. Dwyer was forced to retire, but was later justified by the House of Lords on the grounds that the Amritsar massacre saved British rule.

Keep Craigdarroch!

I WAS most interested in your editorial about the future of Craigdarroch Castle. As a former president of the Castle Society and also the eldest grandson of the builder's son, James Dunsmuir, it would seem to me that such obviously ill-informed and ignorant criticism of one of Victoria's oldest and most intriguing monuments, should be dismissed with the least import it deserves. As to whom the castle belongs and what is to become of it, perhaps some attention could be paid to the manner in which the city of Oakland in California has preserved and dignified its own "Dunsmuir House," built by James Dunsmuir's Greek Alexander, some 10 years after Craigdarroch. This is now a recognized jewel in the city of Oakland's crown and kept as a conference centre and showpiece for visiting key national organizations, holding their meetings in the San Francisco-Oakland Bay area.

Our tourist agencies could afford to lose Craigdarroch as little as they could afford the devaluation let us say of the Butchart Gardens, and now that a film company is proposing to shoot a script built around the colorful life of Alexander Dunsmuir, it would follow that Victoria will be once again focused in the eyes of the world of picture-goers by such edifices as the Parliament Buildings, Dunsmuir House, and Craigdarroch Castle.

Worried

Rhodesia

Now that Prime Minister Wilson has received such a strong mandate, what will he do in regard to Rhodesia?

One thing he must take into account is the almost equally strong and decisive vote given to Prime Minister Verwoerd of South Africa, Rhodesia's nearest and perhaps most sympathetic neighbor, who will certainly not take kindly to excessive sanctions imposed upon Rhodesia, or even less to force employed against her; anything of that kind would be bound to spill over into South Africa, already touchy enough to keep her on careful watch. And who ever wants to see another war?

Here is a suggestion for Mr. Wilson's consideration. Let him grant conditional independence to Rhodesia, within the Commonwealth, for a trial period of say 10 years, to see how they propose to rule the country and educate the natives to bring them nearer to participation in the government of the country. At the end of ten years, the situation could be re-examined, and it necessary further negotiations opened up.

I believe that such a proposal would meet with almost general approval.

Washington Calling

Fulbright Fears War's Escalation

By MARQUEE CHILDS

HE sits hunched over his big desk, stacks of books at either end, his glasses slipping down the bridge of his nose. Senator J. William Fulbright, looking rather like a bemused college professor, is the least likely candidate one could imagine for embattled leader of the opposition on the highly emotional issue of Viet Nam.

Whatever the public image—and from time to time Fulbright has managed to arouse the ire of almost every organized group in the country—this is not how the senator sees himself. He believes in a sober examination of the realities, which is what, as chairman of the U.S. Senate foreign relations committee, he considers the goal of the hearings on Viet Nam and China.

The hearings were widely reported but Sen. Fulbright, who can never be charged with being a cheery optimist, shakes his head sadly as he says that he cannot see that they had much effect on public opinion. In this he finds himself in agreement with President Johnson who noted that the stock of his Viet Nam critics seeking a way out of the war had not risen in opinion polls. In the course of the same talk the president referred to Fulbright as a scholar, a more complimentary term than other presidents have used.

For the crisis of the Viet Nam war and for the senator who has been the most consistent critic of administration policy, this is a kind of halfway point. The China hearings are in suspension, it not concluded as the president, Papandreu was also supported by the Communists in strikes and demonstrations. But it was believed that they merely jumped on the veteran politician's bandwagon.

An article published recently in the World Marxist Review, however, alters the picture. Written by a leading Greek Communist, it seeks to match all credit from Papandreu for the organization of the national resistance to the king's measures last summer. And it describes the Centre Union leader as a mere tool for guiding power for the Communist party in Greece.

It is a well established Communist tactic in Western Europe publicly to lend support to parliamentary candidates unpopular with the Communists in order to block their way to success.

An overwhelming electoral victory by Papandreu would give Greece a strong non-Communist government to replace a weak one. Stefanopoulos' sterile administration furthers the aims of Communism in Greece today a great deal more than a Papandreu government would after the elections.

Frequent arrests of Communist suspects and the exiling of Communist leaders to picturesque but far-away Greek islands rob the country of the very freedom which the nation's rulers are trying so desperately to save from the Communists.

Freedom, as understood in the Western world, is the individual and collective right for choice in both public and private affairs. It is destroyed when—as in this country—one must sacrifice for it such elementary liberties as the right to free speech.

And anti-Communist tyranny provides a hotbed for Communist influence. The article in the World Marxist Review created a fury in the Greek press, considerably reducing Papandreu's chances at the polls. Yet the continued postponement of the elections suggests that Papandreu's opposition regard him still as a formidable rival.

What, then, of the future? The government here is hoping to introduce proportional representation at the next election, reducing the likelihood of the emergence of a substantial majority party. Quarter Milers' Dream Of Strip Near Reality

A 10-year dream of the Victoria Quarter Milers' Club may become a reality early this summer at Mill Bay, club secretary John Dutton said Thursday.

If all goes well, there will be a fully sanctioned drag strip in operation on the 130-acre site of the former Deeks-McBride gravel pit, the secretary said.

The strip, owned by Mike Stogrin of Duncan and three silent partners, will operate under the registered name of Duncan International Raceways, he said.

"The drag strip will be a benefit to Victoria, and especially for the traffic police," which from a standing start dash a measured quarter-mile distance.

He said it should help get young drivers with high-powered cars off the streets.

"There are always complaints about the younger set squealing tires and using the streets as a race track," he said. "With a place to test their cars, it may help in keeping the streets clear."

Drag racing is one of the fastest-growing sports in North America, he said.

Festival Termèd Disappointing

The chairman of the recently-ended spring flower festival is preparing a report recommending its future course in light of this year's "disappointing" event.

A. G. Coning will submit the report to the Chamber of Commerce.

This year's festival—the third—was dogged by weak public support. Two scheduled dances were cancelled when it became apparent they were losers.

MOST EVENTS FREE
"I can understand people not attending something they have to pay for," Mr. Coning commented Monday.

But most functions were free outdoor events like band concerts, military displays, parades, sports and a festival expressed concern that the festival was spreading itself too thin by "trying to please everybody," and suggested more concentration on fewer areas.

"Are we running this at the wrong time of year?" he asked. "Are we doing too much in some areas?"

Publicity director Fred Usher said the festival may simply have been "saturated with entertainment."

Goal: Canadian Merchant Marine

Workers Seek B.C. Talks

A wire will be sent to the B.C. government by the Shipyard General Workers Federation in an effort to set up a meeting to discuss forming a Canadian Merchant Marine.

The 3,000-member federation is opposed over the layoff of 300 skilled workers as the B.C. government ferry Queen of Prince Rupert is being completed.

NO REPLY RECEIVED
The federation already sent a letter requesting a meeting before the legislature proposed, but no far no answer has been received.

"If we have no answer by the beginning of next week, we will be sending a wire pointing out the letter has been sent," said William Stewart, federation president.

The federation believes a Canadian merchant marine would produce national pride, supply jobs for men and women to building, maintaining and running the ships, and since these people would pay taxes the whole country would benefit.

Crows Nest Boosts Marketing Policy

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

More than half of the Crows Nest Industries Ltd., sales in 1965 were of coal and coal products, said Thomas F. Glead, president, in the annual report of the B.C.-Alberta natural resources company.

He said the company was conducting an aggressive marketing policy to export more Canadian coal, and negotiations were progressing towards the sale of 2,000,000 tons a year to Japan from the Crows Nest Balmer seam.

Shipping alternatives were being examined by which Crows Nest hoped to be able to reduce its costs to make government subsidy unnecessary.

In addition to its coal mining progress, Crows Nest had improved forest industry results. Lumber sales rose 205 per cent from 22,500,000 board feet to 68,500,000 board feet and log sales from the export arm in Seattle increased five times to $1,300,000.

Net profit for 1965 was

SHELL RESERVES GROW

Shell Canada Ltd. has estimated its reserves at the end of 1965 to be in excess of 400,000,000 barrels of crude oil, 4,000,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas and 15,000,000 tons of sulphur.

The Shell annual report said despite increased production the reserves estimated were appreciably higher than 1963 when they were last reported.

Shell said it expected its offshore drilling in B.C. waters to commence early in 1967. It is for this aspect of its exploration program that a 16,800-ton semi-submarine drilling vessel is being built by VMD in Victoria.

ASSET SALE HELPED

Thanks largely to a sale of $2,500,000 of assets by one of its subsidiaries, Hawker Siddaley Canada Ltd., made slightly more in 1965 than it did in 1964. Net profit was $3,420,000 (32 cents) compared with $3,020,000 (27 cents) in 1964.

The non-recurring profit of $2,500,000 came from the sale of shares in Seaboard Power Corporation, to Nova Scotia power commission. These were owned by Dominion Steel and Coal of which Hawker Siddaley owns 77 per cent interest.

MORE GAS MOVED

Operating revenue of Trans Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. in the first quarter of 1966 was $39,600,000, an increase of 14 1/2 per cent over the same period of 1965. President J. W. Kerr told the annual meeting in Calgary Tuesday. Volume of gas moved rose 18 1/2 per cent with a peak figure of 1,303,000,000 cubic feet a day being reached in late January.

DEFYING THE SWAMP

They are Banff Oil, Central Del Rio, Imperial Oil, Socomey Mobil and Pan American.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some days it just doesn't pay to be a beauty queen.

Miss Cariboo, Bonnie Bobba, 20, visited Vancouver Monday as part of a promotional tour. She was dressed in Western attire—including a six-gun—and was immediately surrounded by photographers.

She did, and her gun belt fell down.

Then she approached a horse.

"Ride," the photographers said.

So she tried, and was promptly thrown off.

The horse fell down, too.

Miss Cariboo escaped injury and continued her tour.

Smithers Declares Water Emergency

Municipal affairs department officials here confirmed Tuesday night that flood emergency conditions exist in the village of Smithers, halfway between Prince George and Prince Rupert.

James Baird, deputy inspector of municipalities, said he received a telephone call from the clerk of the village of 3,200 that council chairman Joe MacDonald had declared the emergency. In the face of breakdowns of the sewage and water systems caused by adverse weather conditions.

CAN TAKE STEPS

"Under the terms of the Municipal Act, a council of any municipality may declare an emergency condition exists and take whatever steps are necessary to deal with that emergency," said Mr. Baird.

The village council has not yet settled its budget for 1966 and has not yet set its new tax rate, but it can now borrow any money it needs to overcome the emergency, without waiting for approval of the electors there, he said.

BLAST ICE JAM

Earlier Tuesday in Smithers, 300-pound clusters of dynamite were set off in a big ice jam on the Bulkley River in efforts to end the problems of this northern village.

The 150-pound charges used Monday proved of little use in dislodging the ice jam, more than two miles long.

The 300-pound charges knocked sections of the jam loose, but engineers said it would take plenty of the ground-shaking charges to free the river.

Residents are boiling what drinking water they can get because the chlorine was also freezing before it could be pumped into the water lines. While blasting continued with more success Tuesday on the river, workers were repairing the split sewer line and cleaning up sewage that backed into houses. Water supplies, though not abundant, were sufficient to meet necessary needs.

Fatal Fire Blamed On Wiring

PERTH, N.B. (CP) — Faulty wiring was blamed Tuesday for starting a fire which killed five persons as it swept through a one-room home near here earlier in the day.

"We have nothing definite, but we strongly suspect electricity," Deputy Fire Chief Louis Chantler of this western New Brunswick town said. "It was a pretty poorly done job of wiring."

Killed in the fire were a mother, her three daughters and her grandchild.

Hydro Says:

Columbia Sellers Satisfied

VANCOUVER (CP) — R. W. Gross, manager of B.C. Hydro's land division, said Tuesday that the majority of the 750 owners whose Columbia River area property has been purchased "are satisfied with the price and treatment they have received."

About 550 pieces of property remain to be purchased, and this will be done by the middle of next year, he said, "almost two years before the Arrow reservoir begins to fill."

Of the 750 purchased so far only five have gone to expropriation.

"We feel this is a very good record and indicates that we do not resort to expropriation unless it is absolutely necessary."

Mr. Gross was commenting in a statement on charges by the Arrow Lakes Property Owners Protective Association that the buying program was being delayed, that proper compensation was not being received, that proper channels for negotiation were not established.

Mr. Gross said an independent evaluation protects property owners, who may also, if they wish, appeal separately to the courts or seek aid from Judge M. M. Colquhoun, appointed an ombudsman to whom property owners can appeal.

Hansel and Gretel

By E. D. WARD-HARRIS

Twice a day from now through Saturday, a fairy tale is being brought to life at the McPherson and it's something no small child should miss.

The fantasy world of Hansel and Gretel imaginatively produced by Bastion actors, captures the attention of the young audience from the start and holds it firmly to the end, one hour later.

At the performance I attended the kids immediately identified with the children on stage, suffered with them through their ordeal at the witch's house in the forest, and rejoiced when the witch's spell was broken and happiness returned. There was nary a fidget.

The cast obviously got as big a kick out of performing as the audience did in watching, the one having a direct bearing on the other.

Art Penon and Barbara Dunn thought themselves into the name parts and so succeeded in their appeal. Margaret Martin never incurred my hatred because I couldn't believe that anyone who looked so huggable could possibly be a wicked witch. She's the key to the plot and should be terrifically.

Jennifer Chesser, Bill Hosie and Lawrence Elstuck were all delightful as royalty turned into animals by the witch—three talented people thoroughly enjoying what they were doing.

With the exception of Bill Hosie, voices were poor, but this doesn't matter much, except at the beginning when I think Jennifer Chesser, who sets the scene, would be advised to speak her song in the Rex Harrison style.

Direction by Peter Mannering, whose flair for children's theatre is immense, was slick and deft.

Marge Adelberg, who adapted the story and wrote the music and lyrics, is a jewel and I'm delighted to learn that her talent is to be utilized in a wider sense. The song, You Must Obey, has a wonderful zip to it, and some of her lyrics have the Hammerstein touch.

The only thing wrong with the show I saw was the disheartening number of empty seats in the auditorium.

This show, which is touring Greater Victoria schools and upland points, will be at the McPherson only for the remainder of this week. No parent should deny his child the opportunity to see it.

She Won't Pay Tax While Rowdies Roar

Mrs. Lillian Savory, 1287 Oak Bay Avenue, who has written many times complaining of night noise emanating from the A & W drive-in near her home, has threatened City Hall with withholding her taxes.

In a letter which enclosed a petition from 32 other people in the district, she said that there "never were three worse nights than Thursday, Friday and Saturday" of last week. It was nearly 3 a.m. before things became quiet, she said.

Mrs. Savory complained of honking horns, squealing tires and beer-drinking.

"How long do you think people are going to put up with it?" she asked.

Not only is she withholding her taxes until something is

'Man on Moon Soon'

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union celebrated the fifth anniversary of manned space flights with the prediction that man will soon walk on the moon and travel to other planets.

Col. Yuri Gagarin, the Soviet pilot who launched the manned space age with a one-orbit flight around the world, talked of future Russian space spectacles while at the same time criticizing America's alleged use of space for military purposes. "Humans will walk on the moon's path and eventually will reach other worlds," Gagarin, now 32, told a gala anniversary meeting in the Kremlin's Palace of Congresses. "We are sure this will come sooner than we think."

Gagarin saluted American astronauts, but said he "regretted that the U.S. space program is coming more and more openly under the influence of the military (and) is rendering its services to destructive thermonuclear war."

McCrea

HOLLYWOOD — Actor Joel McCrea has filed for divorce from former actress Frances Dee after 32 years of marriage. McCrea, a multi-millionaire land owner in nearby Ventura County, charged his wife with cruelty and sought custody of their 11-year-old son, Peter. The couple has two other sons, actor Jody, 31, and David, 20, a Montana rancher.

BOSTON — Richard Cardinal Cushing has refused to call for Roman Catholic opposition to legislation which would modernize Massachusetts laws against birth control. "It does not seem reasonable to me to forbid in civil law a practice that can be considered a matter of private morality," the Roman Catholic archbishop said.

DUBLIN — Ireland's President Eamon de Valera has received a message of best wishes from President Johnson in connection with ceremonies marking the 50th anniversary of the Easter rebellion.

SAN FRANCISCO — The Golden Gate Bridge, opened in 1937, has recorded its 300th death

WOODBURGE, Conn. — Only a few close friends attended the wedding of Maria Cooper, daughter of the late actor Gary Cooper, and concert pianist Byron Janis. Miss Cooper, 28, and Janis, 35, were married at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Granger. It was the second marriage for Janis and the first for Miss Cooper.

LONDON — John Cardinal Humeau, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Westminster, has been refused a visa to visit Poland for celebrations marking the 1,000th anniversary of Christianity in that country.

ADDIS ABABA — Michel Gambia, 47, Canada's first ambassador to Ethiopia, has presented his credentials to Emperor Haile Selassie.

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. — The marriage of Lucie Balme Johnson to Patrick Nugent will be spectacular in scope with 12 bridesmaids in the wedding party, according to a family friend. The president's daughter is making plans for a "national" wedding that will rival any that has ever involved a first family.

HOLLYWOOD — Actor Kirk Douglas and his wife plan a tour of five East European nations. The couple will visit the capitals of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary.

Blockade Joking Matter

Rhodeia's Premier Ian Smith leans against car in Salisbury and remarks about Britain's oil embargo: "I think it's all a bit of a joke." One tanker on way to Rhodesia's oil pipe inlet at Beira, Mozambique, has been turned away by British frigate, another is tied up and due to unload oil today. — (AP)

Rivals Descend On Gutted Liner

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The burned-out liner Viking Princess, a modern pride of the sea, arrived at the old pirate port of Port Royal, Jamaica, but was denied entrance to the nearby port of Kingston for fear she might sink.

The Kingston harbor master and agents of rival salvage claimants all went to the scene in the harbor master's boat to work out the legal problems.

The Viking Princess arrived under disputed tow of the freighter Navigator. An authorized salvage ship, the Cable, out of Key West, was standing by. Owners of the liner, which burned last Friday in the Windward Passage but stayed afloat after passengers and crew evacuated, had hoped to salvage her in Kingston.

NOT BIG ENOUGH But waterfront sources said the only drydock in Kingston is not big enough to handle a ship of the Viking Princess' 536-foot length. Harbor regulations prevent the entry of any vessel that might sink and block the narrow entrance to the port.

In Oslo, Norway, the owners and insurance companies for the Viking Princess, valued at $16,000,000 before the fire, braced for the legal battle. A spokesman for the Norwegian Insurance Co. said he believes the ship still belongs to Berge Sipsvold Bergersen, the owner before the fire.

INQUIRY PLANNED Maritime authorities said an inquiry into the cause of the fire will be held in Oslo. No date has been set. The captain, Otto Thoresen, arrived in Oslo Tuesday to testify.

Two persons died of heart attacks when a fire and an explosion rocked the engine room of the Viking Princess as she returned to Miami from a week-long Caribbean cruise. The remainder of the passengers and crew, 404 persons, got safely away from the ship.

Cyprus Crisis Undercuts Athens

Premier Digs In

ATHENS (Reuters) — A crisis over Cyprus, which the Greek government's parliamentary majority Tuesday night

Evacuation Help Demanded

TOKYO (AP) — China has demanded that Indonesia arrange for the evacuation of thousands of Chinese "persecuted and made homeless by right-wing reactionary forces."

The foreign ministry in Peking handed Indonesian Ambassador Djawanto a note Tuesday which said Indonesia was bound by treaty to supply ships to remove the Chinese.

The note also called on Indonesia to:

- "Allow them to bring back their own effects and funds."
- "Ensure their safety on the way to the ports; provide them with food and accommodation while they are at the ports; facilitate their departure from Indonesia for China."
- "Protect the Chinese officials in Indonesia for assisting in the return of those Chinese nationals who desire to come back to China of their own will; provide the said Chinese officials with the necessary facilities."
- "Many have been murdered in cold blood, or even beheaded, disemboweled, dismembered and burnt alive," the note charged.

but it decided to remain in power.

The resignation Tuesday of Michael Gabis, social welfare minister, as the cabinet debated the pressing Cyprus problem, deprived Premier Stephanos Stephanopoulos of his one-vote majority.

He now numbers only 150 supporters in the 300-seat house. A majority of 151 is needed.

DECIDED TO STAY

But an official communiqué said Stephanopoulos' government has decided to remain in office, despite the lost majority, rather than provoke a political issue and seek a vote of confidence.

The premier briefed King Constantine on latest developments in the Cyprus policy crisis, which has already brought the resignation of Elias Tsirniakos as deputy premier and foreign minister.

BACK PREMIER

Cabinet members expressed confidence in the premier and backed his policy.

The Cyprus problem centres on a quarrel over who should command the island's 11,000-strong national guard.

President Makarios of Cyprus is seeking to limit the power of his armed forces commander, Gen. George Grivas, the Greek guerrilla fighter who led the island's struggle against Britain for independence, by confining his command to the Greek contingent of the national guard.

The Greek government had sought a compromise. But Tsirniakos in his resignation letter claimed its policy was one-sided and might shake Greek-Cypriot relations and strengthen Turkey's hand in Cyprus politics.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

The creepy-crawlers are at it again. At one time in the Mainland Open match play championship in Vancouver players were taking five and a half hours to complete the circuit.

At Augusta three fit young men who took fewer swings to get around than the pros, the low handicap amateurs, the medocrities and the dubs and duffers. Not more than a couple of years ago a four-hour round was regarded as disgustingly slow. Today it is relatively smart.

The slow-play problem is growing every year, and it affects not only the pros, the low handicap amateurs, the medocrities and the dubs and duffers. Not more than a couple of years ago a four-hour round was regarded as disgustingly slow. Today it is relatively smart.

There are perhaps some excuses for those who take 120 or 130 strokes and lose half a dozen balls a round in the rough every time they play a round. But it is less easy to exonerate others.

It is unfortunate what with television and the growing popularity of golf as a spectator sport that the top men in the game are giving such a bad example, of which the Nicklaus, Jacobs, Brewer playoff was typical.

They are creating some sort of a picture among the non-experts that golf can be played well only with the greatest of deliberation and concentration and without the slightest consideration for those they may be holding up.

As the pots for the professional championships grow larger, the disease will become worse. It was bad enough when the top tournaments were paying $50,000. Now $100,000 is commonplace and the present scheduled top is one of $300,000. The half million dollar tournament will be with us in two or three years unless the pros with their dilly-dallying kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

With thousands of potential dollars hanging on every shot it is not surprising that this happens. Maybe the fault lies with the tournament promoters turning a lovely pastime into a Las Vegas gambling den.

But even if we exclude the big money tournaments as typical of the game, we should not give up our efforts to speed things up for the club golfer.

One thing we should all remember is that creepy-crawly golf is the game's greatest inflation threat. If the standard round takes five hours, club memberships will have to be reduced to give room on the course for all who want to play. Fewer members mean higher membership dues, and they are going up fast enough as it is.

The Victoria District Golf Committee during the past two years has placed expediter in the field to keep competitors in local events from holding up progress.

They operate on instructions to warn players who fall more than one hole in arrears, and so far the warning has been sufficient to speed up play.

Professional dominance of the Vancouver Island Open Match play championship seems to be growing every year.

This time we have five pros, one ex pro and two amateurs in the last eight, which either means that the local pros have come on a lot in recent years or the amateurs have slipped.

The remaining amateurs Lex Sutcliffe and last year's city junior champion Don Billborough and ex pro Art Donaldson could all make the semi-finals according to the draw, or they could all disappear.

On Sunday at Gorge Vale, Donaldson, who took medal honors in the qualifying round meets former winner Laurie Carroll in what should be a rousing match.

Defending champion Ron McLeod goes against Eric Wright in an all-pro match, and the winners of these matches meet in the top semi-final.

In the bottom half Norm Boden, the Cowichan playing pro, meets Sutcliffe and the youthful Billborough has to face the experienced Bill Court, professional from Royal Colwood.

Senior buttons holders Larry McCooey and Ray Johnson of Colwood put on another sound display to beat John Martin and Jack Betts of Uplands on the 14th green at Colwood. They now meet Dick Egan and Ed Lovell of Uplands at Gorge Vale.

An important event for the new Glen Meadows 18-hole course out Ardmore way comes next Monday, April 18. The first annual meeting of the members will be held in the clubhouse on that day.

Full Day of Baseball Too Much for Atlanta

Atlanta dived into major league baseball Tuesday and came out saturated with The Great American Pastime.

Schools and businesses were closed. More than 250,000 Atlantans turned out in downtown streets for a welcoming parade for the Braves who this year made the big leap from Milwaukee to Dixie.

Then another 50,671 fans turned out for the night game in the new stadium against the Pirates and got their fill of baseball.

However, the game took 13 innings to complete and half the fans had gone home when Pittsburgh's Willie Stargel got around to winning it 3-2 with a two-run homer.

Joe Torre hit two homers for the Braves.

Ron Fairly drove in all three runs as the Dodgers started their National League season with a 3-2 victory over the Houston Astros in Los Angeles.

Claude Osteen pitched a six-hitter for the win.

Three-hitter Juan Marichal threw a fine three-hitter for San Francisco Giants as they routed Los Durocher's return to the majors by demolishing his Chicago Cubs, 9-1.

Willie Mays smashed a two-run homer that triggered a six-run outburst in the fourth inning.

Philadelphia at St. Louis and New York at Cincinnati were rained out.

KEY SINGLE
Over in the American League, Detroit's Norm Cash spoiled the Yankee's home opener as he clipped Whitey Ford for a run-scoring single in the ninth inning that gave Mickey Lolich and the Tigers a 2-1 victory over New York.

Jim Grant, the Minnesota Twins' 21-game winner sent the American League champions off into the 1966 season on a victorious note as he pitched the Twins to a 2-1 victory over Kansas City.

Sharing honors with Grant was Sandy Valdespino, who drove in both runs against the A's fastballer Jim Hunter.

ORIOLES WIN
The Baltimore Orioles, regarded as a serious perennial threat got off flying with a 5-1 13-inning triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Frank Robinson, playing his first American League game and Brooks Robinson, the circuit's most valuable player in 1964, hit homers for the Orioles.

BASES LOADED
Boston pitcher Jim Lonborg, who had pitched three innings of perfect relief, balked with the bases loaded in the 13th to allow Luis Aparicio, with two out, to stroll home.

Chicago White Sox defeated California Angels, 3-2, in a home game opener, thanks to Tom McCraw's scratch single with the bases loaded in the 14th inning. Juan Pizarro, the White Sox' fifth pitcher got the win.

Seals Here and Hungry

'We've Come for Both Games'

"We've come for both games. Most people come for one, but not us. We've come for 'em both."

The speaker was Bud Polie, manager of the San Francisco Seals who tonight play the first of two Western Hockey League playoff games with Victoria Maple Leafs in Memorial Arena.

Leafs and Seals continue their best-of-seven semi-final here Saturday then move to San Francisco for the next three.

Polie has something going for him to allow him to make such positive statements. His club watched the last playoff spot in the dying moments of the WHL schedule by simply winning 11 and tying two of its last 14 games.

Polie outlined the reasons for this successful run:

● Charlie Burns, their playing coach, came back after missing almost three months with a back injury and inspired his club;

● Seals got phenomenal goaltending from Joe Daley, who won six out of seven games after coming on loan from Memphis when regular goalie Jack McCartan was injured;

● Seals have had all their players together in the last three weeks for the first time since training camp. Injuries and recalls to the majors derailed their lineup all season; and

● All the boys suddenly decided they wanted to play hockey.

Much as they might want to play, three Seals will be out of tonight's game, however. They are goaltender McCartan, out with a knee injury, Wayne Maxner, who is sitting it out with a pulled muscle and Gerry Brisson who has sufficient knee trouble to keep him out of the lineup.

San Francisco will use amateur, Bob Gray of Fort Wayne, Indiana in goal tonight. Daley, who has been performing so spectacularly, was with the club on an emergency basis only.

With Fort Wayne eliminated from the International League playoffs, Gray became available to his parent club, the Seals.

Seals had hoped to use league standby goaltender Marcel Pelletier, but the league ruled otherwise on Thursday.

Maple Leafs will be at full strength with the exception of Steve Wittek, their penalty-killing specialist, who suffered a knee injury in Leafs' last game.

Game time tonight at Memorial Arena is 8:15.

Black Hawks Win But Lose Players

DETROIT (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks lost two players en route but managed to score a 2-1 victory over Detroit Red Wings in the third game of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series here Tuesday night.

The victory enabled the Hawks to take a 2-1 edge in the series with the fourth game slated for here Thursday night. Hawks would appear to have an edge now as they get the extra home game should the series go the limit.

Chico Maki, who was lost to the club with a knee injury late in the second period, and Eric Nesterenko scored for the Hawks. Both came in the middle period.

Right winger Bryan Watson, who did another superb job in checking Chicago super star Bobby Hull, accounted for Detroit's lone goal.

WIN COSTLY
The triumph was costly for the Hawks, pre-series favorites, as they lost both Maki and defenceman Elmer (Moose) Vasko.

Vasko suffered an eight-inch cut to his right thigh when he was involved in a scramble in front of the Detroit goal. It appeared as if Detroit centre Normie Ullman's skate inflicted the wound, which required 20 stitches to close it. Vasko did not return to the ice.

ON STRETCHER
Maki, who played on a makeshift line with Hull and centre Stan Mikita, collided with defenceman Leo Boivin late in the second period and was removed from the ice on a stretcher.

Reports were that Maki suffered a sprain to the right knee and possible torn ligaments. He was listed as a doubtful starter for Thursday's contest.

For the second consecutive game, Watson was superb in his coverage of Hull. He shadowed the 27-year-old Hawk left winger at every turn and allowed him few scoring opportunities.

FAR DIFFERENT
The Wings were a far cry from the club that walloped the Hawks 7-0 in Chicago Sunday.

They seemed to lack the drive and zip they exhibited in the second game and Chicago came on as the stronger team.

The Wings took a 1-0 lead in the first period and appeared as if they would make it two straight over Chicago. However, when the Hawks scored their two goals, the Wings faded and allowed the Chicago team to control the game.

After being wrestled to the ice by Hull at the three-quarter mark of the first period, Watson snared a pass by defenceman Bill Gadsby and raced up right wing. He drilled a long shot from just over the blue line which bounced in front of goalie Glenn Hall and into the net.

TIES SCORE
Maki tied the score for the Hawks at 6:19 of the second. 54 seconds after defenceman Bert Marshall of the Wings was penalized for hooking. With three players concentrating on Hull, the latter flipped a pass over to his linemate who was all alone on the right wing.

Maki closed in on Crozier, pulled the goalie to one side and scooped the puck into the open left corner. It was Maki's first goal of the series.

PAYS OFF
Play was ragged in spots in the middle period but the Hawks kept pressing the Wings and it paid off at 18:43 when Nesterenko scored. He shot from the side with Paul Henderson trapped around him. The puck appeared to bounce off Detroit's goalie Roger Crozier and into the open net.

In the third period, the Hawks were playing it close in an effort to protect their one-goal lead. However, defensive errors by the Wings in their own zone enabled the Hawks to get in close on Crozier.

STARTED STRONGLY
Toronto started strongly and for the first 28 minutes had Canadiens on the run and off stride. Montreal was fortunate to be behind by only two goals going into the second period.

Centre Dave Keon missed three great chances for goals with goalie Gump Worsley sprawled in the Montreal nets but about wide. His winger Frank Mahovlich, Toronto's top scorer in the regular season with 32 goals, also missed two great close-in chances.

LUCKY TOO
Worsley came on strong after a spotty start. He was fooled completely on Shuck's opening goal, was screened and out of the play on Horton's counter and was lucky when another screened drive by defenceman Bobby Baum bounced off the crossbar.

Toronto Almost Out As Habs Win Again

TORONTO (CP)—Montreal Canadiens erupted for three goals in three minutes and 10 seconds midway through the second period and rolled to a 5-2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs Tuesday night to take a commanding 3-0 margin in their Stanley Cup semi-final series.

Centre Ralph Backstrom started the Montreal comeback and its passes began to click in the middle period. From then on the Canadiens never looked back and had the Leafs floundering and befuddled.

MUST WIN
The clubs meet again here Thursday night in the fourth game and Toronto must win to keep the best-of-seven series alive and force a fifth contest in Montreal next Saturday.

Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, also got goals from Bobby Rousseau, Terry Harper, John Ferguson and Jean Beliveau, who scored into an open net.

FIRST PERIOD
Toronto, which held a 2-0 margin until Montreal launched its comeback, got goals from Eddie Shuck and Tim Horton, both in the first period.

Canadiens erased the 2-0 deficit with their three-goal outburst in the second and then sailed away the contest with two more unanswered tallies in the third.

Dick Duff, a former Leaf, set up Backstrom for Montreal's all-important first goal. He knocked down a clearing shot by Horton and passed to Backstrom at the edge of the crease.

LITTLE CHANCE
The shifty centre flipped it home, giving veteran Johnny Bower little chance. Bower was in the nets for Toronto for the first time in the series after missing the first two games because of the flu.

After that goal Montreal appeared to find its skating legs and its passes began to click. It was just a question of time.

THAT DID IT
When Ferguson scored 16 seconds into the final period much of the fire seemed to leave Toronto. The Leafs just couldn't shake the dogged Montreal checkers, particularly Duff and Jim Roberts, Canadiens' ace penalty-killer.

To stay alive Toronto now must win the next four games, a feat accomplished only once in Stanley Cup history, by the 1942 edition of the Leafs.

Despite Toronto's avowed intentions of running Montreal out of the rink with husky body-checking, Canadiens have yet to appear intimidated.

HELPED COMEBACK
In fact it was Toronto's preoccupation with hitting, especially Montreal hardrock Ferguson, that helped Montreal ignite its comeback.

After Backstrom got Montreal's first goal, Shuck was caught high-sticking Ferguson and while he was off Rousseau tied the score with his third goal of the series.

Leafs were dazed and just 26 seconds later Harper said a screened shot from the right point that went between Bower's legs.

Everyone was looking for Ferguson and forgot the puck early in the final period. Before they knew what happened the rugged winger—who was put on as Shuck's checker for the game—whipped a waist-high shot behind a screened Bower.

Bower was pulled with 57 seconds remaining as Leafs sent out an extra attacker. Beliveau made no mistake on his shot with 10 seconds remaining.

Retriever dog trials seem to have come back to popularity on Vancouver Island and to have once again become established as an annual Easter weekend attraction.

The second annual Canadian Kennel Club-sanctioned trials of the Vancouver Island Retriever Club turned out to be one of the most exciting displays for both handlers and spectators seen on the island for many years.

Sixty-one dogs were entered in the four events held Saturday at Cobble Hill and Sunday at Blenkinsop Lake. Last year 60 dogs competed.

Even Sunday's miserable weather failed to keep away an enthusiastic crowd of spectators.

Some of the best retriever dogs in the Pacific Northwest performed before the gallery.

The Jack Smyth Memorial Trophy for the best Canadian-owned and handled open all-age dog was won by Smokey of Jettin, owned and handled by Don Munn of Vancouver.

In Saturday's land and water events at Cobble Hill Joe Merow of Vancouver, who used to be one of the top contenders at the old Parkville trials, took the open all-age stake with his black Labrador Country Club's El Cid.

Second place went to Canadian field trial champion Captain Lomac, handled by Ken Gibson of Vancouver and owned by Rudy Deering of Vancouver. Third was Canadian field trial champion Moose of Lomac, owned and handled by Pete McLennan of Vancouver and fourth place was won by Fred Wrotonick of Vancouver with Black Banker Jet.

Oliver Krog of Vancouver and Stan Devereaux of Nanaimo were judges for the open event.

Three of the four places in the qualifying stake went to Vancouver Island dogs.

Jet's Gal Jeff, owned and handled by W. Jamieson of Vancouver, was first. Second was Sydronell's Black Vanguard, owned and handled by Tom Moss of Victoria; third, Luther's Salish Starline, owned and handled by Lou Yellowless of Victoria; fourth, Boomerang of Nanclote, owned and handled by Hunter Smith of Mill Bay.

D. Lee and H. W. Grant of Vancouver were qualifying stake judges.

On Sunday the open all-age stake was won by Canadian Field Trial champion Captain of Lomac, handled by Ken Gibson and owned by Rudy Deering, of Vancouver. This dog also won the Vancouver Island Retriever Club trophy.

Second in the all-age event was dual champion Baron's Tule Tiger, owned and handled by Mrs. W. Heller of California; third, Grady's Shadee Ladee, handled by Bert Carlson of Seattle and owned by W. Chilcott of Seattle; fourth, Oscar's Petite Lightning owned and handled by Mrs. Heller.

Dick Lee and Mickey Grant of Vancouver were judges.

In Sunday's junior stakes Vancouver Island dogs won two of the four places.

First place went to Netley Creek's Rip, handled by Ken Gibson of Vancouver and owned by George Hudson of Vancouver. Second, Sheba of Molybru, owned and handled by Bruce Scharf of Vancouver; third, Angus of Stillrovin, owned and handled by Rob Harman of Victoria; fourth, Mossbank's Night Hawk, owned and handled by Al Buchanan of Victoria.

Judges were Oliver Krog of Vancouver and Stan Devereaux of Nanaimo.

Pay Rates Hinder Construction Pact

Contractors Ask Stricter Control For Qualifications

Electrical Contractors' Association of B.C. Tuesday urged the provincial government Tuesday to enforce more strongly the Tradesmen's Qualifications Act clauses dealing with the electrical industry, at the association convention in Victoria.

"Labor minister Peterson assured us that enforcement would begin this year," association president N. P. Melnyk said Tuesday.

FOUR YEARS

The act, he said, would be changed to make it necessary for a person working for a contractor's licence to have had a minimum of four years' experience in the trade.

As things now stand, 1,800 persons have government certificates of competency, but only 600 are "truly qualified businessmen," he said.

NEW LEGISLATION

The association will also seek streamlined provincial legislation to protect the public against unscrupulous electrical contractors.

Mr. Melnyk said Monday that one objective is to present a method to guarantee the installation of electrical heating in private homes and commercial buildings by association members.

ADDED PROTECTION

"Individual contractors guarantee their work now," he said. "We plan to have the association stand behind the work, as added protection to the public."

Pay rates are still the main stumbling block in negotiations between construction and general laborers and city contractors, and the next step may have to be taken by a conciliation officer.

Construction workers have rejected a 45-cent-an-hour wage increase offered by the contractors.

The laborers are asking for a two-year contract with their rates increased by 15 cents an hour on April 1, a 10-cent increase effective Sept. 1, and an additional 30 cents an hour on March 1, 1967.

The laborers' current rate is $2.65 an hour. The contractors have offered a three-year contract with a 15-cent-an-hour increase each year.

The laborers' terms would give them a wage of $3.24 an hour by next March, said Victoria Building Industries Exchange President William Dillabough.

"Before pay rates came into discussion, it appeared that a reasonable settlement was near," he said. "The next step in the contract dispute is a conciliation officer."

Week to Mark World Trade

The week of May 1 to 7 has been set aside as World Trade Week in British Columbia, by the provincial cabinet.

The special week is being observed because the "economic welfare" of this province depends largely upon trade in

Will the Lawn-Boy owner please stand up

Lawn-Boy with Grasscatcher picks up grass, leaves, and weeds as you cut!

If you're a Lawn-Boy owner stand up and take a bow. You're one of the smart ones. Think it over and relax. It's not that simple, but it's true. Lawn-Boy's grasscatcher does the raking for you. It picks up grass while you cut. It picks up leaves in the fall and slides your lawn in spring. It collects weeds before they spread over your lawn. To empty, you just snap off the bag and wring.

Lawn-Boy starts easier, too. You use just two fingers and 94% less effort than old-fashioned heave-and-haul type mowers. And Lawn-Boy is waranted for two years—that's longer than some mowers last.

See your dealer for the full line of Lawn-Boys with grasscatcher, without grasscatcher, push-type, and self-propelled. In all, there are 18 seasons you should own a Lawn-Boy. Your dealer is itching to show you every one.

Own a Lawn-Boy the time you have becomes your own.

Kitchen Buttered Up By House Looters

Thieves coated kitchen cupboards with butter and stole $1,056 in goods and cash from the home of Harry and Hilda Harris, 3920 Bruefoot.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris have just completed an inventory of their losses after they found their house a shambles on April 5.

The house had been vacant because of a recent fire.

Det. Sgt. Robin Stewart of Saanich police said boys are suspected. Saanich police have appealed for any information on the theft and vandalism.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris told police that a bottle of rum and a bottle of gin had been drunk by the thieves.

Among the goods stolen were three radios, a pair of opera glasses, a camera and "ums, a tape recorder, record player, watches, cufflinks and liquor."

Ferry Meeting Off No New Date Set

A meeting to discuss the simmering B.C. Ferry workers' dispute about summer shift schedules was postponed Tuesday at the request of Victoria lawyer Marney Stevenson.

Mrs. Stevenson represents several hundred ferry employees working out of the four main B.C. Ferry terminals, who have asked for appointment of a board of reference to hear their grievances.

She said she asked for postponement of a meeting between herself and a special provincial cabinet sub-committee because she had previously arranged to be in Vancouver Tuesday.

Provincial Secretary Black said no new date had been set for the talks, in which he, Resources Minister Williston and Public Works Minister Chan will represent the cabinet.

Mrs. Stevenson said that while she was willing to confer with the cabinet sub-committee about the issue, "I certainly wouldn't want it to take the place of a board of reference."

The ferry catering and deck crews, who have no union, are protesting shift schedules of 12 days on, three days off during the four-month summer season.

They want a board of reference to review the Jan. 28 findings of the Civil Service Commission that they should continue this year's work schedule and that the B.C. Ferry Authority should plan different schedules next year.

Triplet Boys Born

LADYSMITH — Triplet boys were born in Ladysmith General Hospital Tuesday morning to Mrs. Louise Nobles, 23, wife of Matthew Nobles, 30-year-old horse rancher of Yellow Point. The Nobles now have five sons and two daughters, the oldest aged nine.

The mother and her three new sons are reported to be "fine," according to Mrs. Agnes Nobles, 273 Hazelton, Victoria, Mr. Nobles' mother.

"Everybody was surprised," she said. "The doctor told my daughter-in-law that she could expect twins but the triplets were a surprise."

"This is all so sudden. They hadn't planned names for three children."

Mrs. Nobles said her son and his family just moved to Yellow Point from Burns Lake at Christmas.

Galiano Parley

'From B.C. To B.C.'

GALIANO—This island, which was the scene of archaeological diggings in the summers of 1964 and 1965, will play host to the B.C. Historical Association conference, May 13, 14 and 15.

Opening night speaker is Donald H. Mitchell of the University of Victoria's department of anthropology and sociology, who led the expeditions.

Mr. Mitchell and a crew of six unearthed artifacts at Montague Harbor dating back to 1000 B.C.

VISIT TO DIGGINGS

The findings have provided provincial president Donald New of Galiano with the conference theme, From B.C. to B.C. A visit to the diggings will be a feature of the conference.

Other speakers at the three-day conference, hosted by the Gulf Islands branch, will be Education Minister Peterson; Willard Ireland, provincial archivist; and publisher Mrs. Margaret Murray of Lillooet.

300 Pay Respects To Petrie

More than 300 mourners paid respects Friday to the late Dr. Robert M. Petrie, Canada's top astronomer, who died here Friday at 58.

McCall Bros. funeral chapel was full to overflowing as Rev. Robert J. D. Morris began his eulogy to the Dominion Astronomer and director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

Among the mourners Tuesday were University of Victoria president Dr. Malcolm Taylor and several of his deans. Dr. Petrie was a member of both the senate and board of governors of the university.

Cremation followed the ceremony.

Loan Approval Given PGE

The provincial cabinet Tuesday authorized the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to borrow $5,000,000 by the issuance and sale of short-term notes.

An order-in-council stated that the notes would be guaranteed by the provincial government and that they were to mature not later than Oct. 31, 1966.

Newspaper Advertising Stimulates Buying

How come 3,850,000 Canadians are insured by Metropolitan Life -more than any other company?

Mostly, it's because our customers like the way we treat them—and their money.

With 2,160 full-time representatives across the country, Metropolitan always has someone nearby to give personal attention to every claim or question.

And, whether you need a thousand dollars of insurance or $5 million, Metropolitan has a complete range of life and health plans from which to tailor a program just for you.

Metropolitan pays policyholders and beneficiaries an average of more than two and a quarter million dollars a week. Nearly two-thirds of that money goes to living policyholders.

And one out of every two Metropolitan Life policies bought, is bought by one of our present policyholders. These are a few of the reasons why 3,850,000 Canadians have chosen Metropolitan.

Remember, the company you get your insurance from can make a difference—a very big difference in the security that you provide for your family.

Call your local Metropolitan adviser. He will be pleased to give you a Family Security Check-Up, which may turn up assets you never knew you had.

There's no obligation . . . except to those you love.

Millions choose Metropolitan Life —more in Canada than any other company

Convicts Shot In Riot

BREATHEDS VILLE, MA. (AP)—Police supported by riot guns, tear gas, dogs and yard-long clubs are standing by to maintain order in the aftermath of rioting at the Maryland Correctional Institution.

Two prisoners were shot Tuesday after a riot erupted during breakfast at the medium-security facility near this small western Maryland community, and several other persons were injured.

GUARDS ATTACKED

Two guards were attacked by prisoners Monday night and another disturbance broke out at noon Tuesday, but was quelled quickly.

A group of prisoners ran rampant through the dining room at breakfast time, then roamed through other areas, wrecking property as they went. The guard force, augmented by state troopers and sheriff's deputies, put down the riot in less than two hours.

DISATISFACTION

Vernon L. Peppercorn, state commissioner, said he had talked to several prisoners, and the cause of the riot "just seemed to be general dissatisfaction, but mainly what they refer to as their rights."

"Each of them had his own idea of what this meant. One spoke of money, another of food, another of recreation."

BLAME GUARDS

But a reporter approaching the facility heard prisoners yell from the windows "It was because of beatings by guards."

Preston L. Fitzberger, superintendent of the institution for youthful offenders, said "perhaps a score" of prisoners were behind the discontent.

Third Group Claims Treasure

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—A Portuguese-born salvage skipper claimed Tuesday the treasure of the sunken French ship Le Chameau belongs to him and his crew.

Capt. Manuel Sequeira and his crew became the third group to claim the treasure, which three Louisbourg divers reported last week they had found under 70 feet of water off the former French fortress.

Capt. Sequeira said he and the crew of his vessel found the wreck of Le Chameau in July, 1961, and recovered three large brass cannons and two small brass cannons. He said he plans legal action to back up his claim.

Meanwhile, Sheriff James MacKillop of Cape Breton County plans to begin an item count tonight of items recovered from the wreck.

School Aid Coming

VANCOUVER (CP)—More money for B.C. school districts will be announced by Education Minister Peterson Thursday.

Peterson, attending the 10th annual convention of the B.C. Teachers Federation Tuesday, said in an interview that he will announce an improved financial formula for provincial grants to school districts in Kelowna, April 14 when he is scheduled to address the annual meeting of the B.C. Parent-Teachers Association in Kelowna secondary school.

Peterson would not disclose details of the proposed new financial set-up Tuesday.

Glimmer of Hope in Manitoba

Flood Crisis Averted By 'Miracle Weather'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Weather conditions approaching the miraculous have worked to spare Manitoba from one of the worst floods in its history.

No one dared to predict, or even hope, for less than normal precipitation since the great March 4 blizzard set the stage for an anticipated flood holding the potential of surpassing the 1950 disaster in the Red River Valley.

However, precipitation at Winnipeg amounted to half an inch since March 4—a third of normal—and flood forecasts provided the first glimmer of hope in a picture of gloom Monday by revising crest predictions downward.

More serious Premier Duff Roblin described it as "miracle weather" Tuesday and said had weather conditions been normal, "the situation would have been much more serious than it is."

The swollen Red River, which gathers its forces from a watershed extending deep into Minnesota and North Dakota, was within a fraction of its anticipated peak at Emerson where it stood six feet above bank level and two feet from the top of the dikes—1.7 feet below the 1950 peak.

Crest stays down It is about two feet lower than the maximum crest originally predicted earlier for the town of 850 on the Manitoba border 60 miles south of Winnipeg.

Flood coordinator Frank McInnes said he is "quite satisfied" with the conditions of the earth dikes they holds back.

Boys Face Charge Of Theft

Two boys charged with stealing a woman's purse downtown Sunday night were brought back to Victoria from Vancouver Tuesday.

Mrs. Charlotte Foster, 79, 857 McClure, was walking home from church with a friend at about 9:30 p.m. when two boys grabbed her purse as they neared Blanshard and Fort.

The thieves then ran north on Blanshard and disappeared down View.

The purse contained $45 to $50, police said. The boys are expected to appear in juvenile court this week to face theft charges.

Spencer Notebook 'Filled with Code' Notebook New Angle

VANCOUVER (CP)—Some of the mystery surrounding the sudden death of accused spy George Victor Spencer was cleared up Tuesday — only to give birth to fresh mystery.

The latest speculation centred on a black notebook said to be filled with code.

Spencer, 61, was found dead in his home here Saturday night only four days before a judicial inquiry into his case was to have opened here.

An autopsy showed a blood alcohol content of 24 parts per 1,000, well above the 15 usually considered the level of impairment.

John Flak, deputy city police chief, said Tuesday the police investigation so far shows Spencer's death was not due to foul play.

"The preliminary autopsy does not support anything but natural causes, but the final analysis has not been completed. We are simply investigating this as a sudden death."

Coroner Glen McDonald, who has scheduled an inquest for Thursday, said it would be difficult for the inquest to reach a decision on Spencer's death.

He said he would ask RCMP for details of Spencer's activities and what knowledge RCMP had of Spencer's movements just before his death.

The black notebook provided fresh mystery.

The Sun says police were known to have taken from Spencer's house a black notebook containing "a series of numbers and letters arranged in code form." A tape recorder and tape recording also were seized, says The Sun.

BRIEF CASE

Deputy Flak admitted police are holding a briefcase believed to belong to Spencer but said he knows nothing of reports about the notebook or the tape recorder.

Spencer had been reported carrying $40 when he left an east-end beer parlor last Wednesday night—the possible night of his death—but police had said at first they had found less than $1 on Spencer.

Tuesday, however, police disclosed that $24 was found in a wallet in Spencer's home.

Harry Rankin, Spencer's lawyer, cleared up the alleged disappearance of the bodyguard.

Earlier reports said Bill Ranta, a constant companion and bodyguard of Spencer, had not been seen for a week and could not be found.

Mr. Rankin said Tuesday Ranta visited him in Mr. Rankin's office Monday, that Ranta was a friend of Spencer, not a bodyguard, and that he was 70.

Educator Blames Johnson, Philip

TORONTO (CP)—Delegates to the 106th conference of the Ontario Educational Association were told Tuesday that much of today's urgency over physical fitness is dictated by a nationalistic fear and spaceage rivalry.

Dr. Celeste Ulrich, president of the United States National Association of Physical Education for College Women, accused both President Johnson and Prince Philip of false national pride in promoting physical fitness.

"Physical education swings with presidential edicts. It is influenced by enunciations of the Duke of Edinburgh and wafers with the Olympic scores."

Government Teachers On Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 3,000 technical teachers employed by the Quebec government went on strike Tuesday and a government spokesman announced plans for seeking a court injunction banning the strike.

The walkout resulted from what union leaders called "impatience" with government slowness in negotiations. It affects an estimated 30,000 students.

Einstein Would Flunk

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto rabbi says Albert Einstein could never have graduated from a secondary school in Canada today because of the rigidity of the school system.

Rabbi W. Gunther Plaut said in a speech to the Ontario Secondary School Headmasters Council the mathematician was fortunate in having an exceptional teacher who helped him overcome serious natural limitations.

The rabbi predicted that the school of the future will propose creativity by deceptive grades, tests and exams.

Too many pupils worked hard to make grades "rather than be educated."

Smoke Drop Not Good Enough

The fact that Plummer Bay Sawmills Ltd. has cut waste burning down from 60 tons a day to five is good, but not good enough, the Metropolitan Board of Health decided Tuesday.

The five tons of hemlock bark still produce a nuisance, and until there is complete elimination of burning, the complaints will pour in from View Royal and from the municipality, Esquimalt Coun. Arthur Mebs told members.

However, the board is willing to wait and see what happens, particularly since the company is investigating methods of making use of the bark, possibly as a mulch for soil.

COST $100,000
A letter from the company's lawyer, Alan Cox, said the conversion had cost the company $100,000. One of two beehive burners would be dismantled this summer, and the other would be eliminated if a way could be found to dispose of the remaining waste.

One trouble, said Senior Medical Officer J. L. M. Whitbread, was that the area hit by the smoke was occasionally subject to atmospheric inversion which compounded the nuisance.

The smoke was not serious now and probably would not be considered a nuisance in some municipalities. The company had co-operated to eliminate the trouble, and it would be only fair to give it time to see what could be done.

TIME LIMIT
The board will press the company for a time limit on elimination and on the feasibility of stockpiling the bark. Meanwhile, it will obtain legal advice in the event court action is advisable.

The Queen of Prince Rupert will be on view from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. before returning to her berth at Victoria Machinery Dept. A spokesman for the ferry service said the new ship would not make any other calls until it was placed in service on the main run from Kelsey Bay May 14.

Police Recover Stolen Goods

Saanich police Tuesday recovered some of the goods stolen from the Woolco department store overnight Saturday.

Det. Sgt. Robin Stewart said a suitcase, two pairs of binoculars and a camera were found in the rear of a rented trailer in the Mayfair parking lot.

Still missing are two walkie-talkie radios and another camera.

Dozen in Saanich Spot Flying Thing in Daylight

By TIM GLOVER

Twelve Saanich boys made a daytime sighting of an unidentified flying object Tuesday.

"It came in over Cadboro Bay and seemed to fly over and disappear behind the Solarmark," reported Rand Ritchie, aged 12, of 2434 Camelot Road.

"It was about the size of a jet but made no sound and had no vapor trail."

"It was made of something like aluminum, and it shone in

"One of the guys hit a fly and then I spotted the object," said Rand.

Pointing to a cloud at about 5,000 or 6,000 feet, Rand said that the object was about that high.

After it disappeared, all the boys ran over toward the Solarmark to see if it had landed, but found nothing.

Canora Heading for Retirement

Good ship Canora, which has many times been subject of uplifted eyebrows because of her unusual build, will be taken out of service, CNR announced Tuesday. She is used to ferry boxcars between Tilbury Island on Fraser River and Victoria. She was built in Quebec and arrived in Victoria in 1918, originally to carry passenger coaches from Port Mann to Patricia Bay. Railway will not re-apply for fitness certificates when present one expires May 18. Service employs 50 men.

Pollution at Lake 'Will Get Worse'

Prospect Lake's pollution will get worse and its recreational value will decline unless septic tank regulations are strictly enforced in the area, Saanich public works committee was told Tuesday night.

Dead Baby Not Hurt By Mother

A premature baby found dead Friday on a city boulevard was probably delivered by its mother, coroner Edmond Jorje de St. Jorre ruled after a coroner's inquest Monday.

He ruled that the baby was delivered by persons or a person unknown and abandoned, adding that there was nothing wrongful in the delivery and the child was not abused.

It died at birth of a brain hemorrhage.

It was found wrapped in towels on a grassy boulevard in the 2800 block, Fifth Street.

"If you say a sewer system is unfeasible at this time, then firm action will have to be taken against residents whose septic tanks are not functioning properly," said R. B. Ralls, president of the Prospect Lake Community Association.

COST PROHIBITIVE
Earlier at the meeting, Saanich municipal engineer Neville Life reported that the cost of installing a sewer system around the lake would be prohibitive.

He estimated that the cost of a sewer survey for the area would be approximately $10,000. "It would take a tremendous amount of field work," the engineer told the committee.

TWENTY YEARS
He forecast that it would be nearly 20 years before population density would justify the cost of sewers.

Committee chairman Leslie Passmore told the association president that a sewer survey for the Greater Victoria area was expected to be made public soon, and perhaps this would point the way to stopping pollution of the lake.

PIPED SUPPLY
The controversial issue of a piped fresh water supply for the lake area was again considered by the committee at last night's meeting.

Campbell's Car Hit By Truck

An accident at Courtenay Tuesday morning damaged a car driven by Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell to the extent of $150. The minister was stopped at the time and the car was hit by a truck. There were no injuries. Mr. Campbell was in his home riding and spoke the previous night at the annual banquet of the Farmers' Institute.

Lake residents, whose wells in some cases are contaminated, want piped city water. Residents who have good wells maintain there is no need for the water to be piped in.

The public works committee agreed to attend a public meeting sponsored by the community association and hear both sides of the question. May 11 was suggested as a date for the hearing.

Blood-Soaked Clothing Produced at Hearing

Blood-soaked clothing was produced in central magistrate's court Tuesday during the second day of a capital murder preliminary hearing.

Sixteen-year-old Francis Otley Wollaston, 734 Sea Drive, is charged with murdering seven-year-old Linda Crocker Feb. 10. Linda's body was found on a rocky outcrop off Wallace Drive.

PRODUCED IN ITEMS
Mrs. Veronica Simonsen, a blood expert connected with the RCMP crime detection laboratory in Vancouver, produced 36 items which she had tested for bloodstains and said she found them to be of blood group A.

She said she found human blood on part of a rock but was unable to determine the blood group.

Mrs. Simonsen also examined some boy's clothing, later identified as that worn by Wollaston at the time of the arrest.

SIDE OF LEG
"I examined them and found human blood, group A, down the side of the right leg," Mrs. Simonsen said.

She said she examined a blood sample given her and found it to be group A.

To defence counsel Lloyd McKenzie, Mrs. Simonsen said 42 March 28.

Jury Blames Barbiturates

A coroner's jury found Tuesday that Mary Patricia Moresby, of Sidney, died March 27 of barbiturate poisoning with a hemorrhage as a contributing factor.

Mrs. Moresby was found lying in her home at 2541 Bevan 42 March 28.

Cpl. Tony Prokop told the court he was in charge of the hair and three identification department at the Vancouver crime laboratory.

He said he found a number of hair fragments on a rock and compared them with fragments from a bottle labeled "Linda Crocker", but added it was impossible for him to say positively that both hair fragments originated from the same source.

The hearing, before Magistrate William Oatley, will continue in criminal court today.

Dr. Desruibe said she was certain Linda was dead when she examined her, about 15 minutes after the body was found.

Cook as Near as Phone For Helpless Husbands

By JAMES WOODDALE

LONDON — There's relief at hand for this city's helpless husbands.

No longer need mere males fear the ordeal of tackling household chores and cooking for the family when the women of the house are struck down by flu or suddenly called away to visit relatives in the country.

All married hubby now has to do is dial Hyde Park 1141. One of eight pretty young women in the Call-a-Cook Service of the Food Information Centre, near Oxford Circus in the West End, will answer. And, free of charge, problems will vanish.

The girls—home economists, they are called—will carefully dictate planned household budgeting details and give complete advice on catering for single persons, complete families, even dinner parties. The soothing telephone voice tells how to prepare and cook everything from a poached egg on toast to a multicourse banquet.

The Food Information Centre, a publicity department sponsored by a chain of giant food concerns to distribute free recipes and advice to housewives, recently launched the Call-a-Cook Service. For the first 24 hours, the switchboard was jammed with callers. Now it's settled into a steady stream of aid-seeking people from left-alone husbands, bachelors and party-throwers to children planning surprise spreads to greet the folks.

The girls at the business end of the phone lines are all in their twenties and all have completed four-year study courses in household economics, advanced cookery, nutrition and some child psychology.

Kathy Roche, 22, answered when I called.

I said I had to prepare dinner for my sick wife and two small sons. Could she plan something very simple for a very simple tenderfoot caterer?

This was her menu: minestrone soup (out of a packet, with instructions any dumb man could follow); roast chicken (she told me the cooking instructions and the number at which to set the gas oven); frozen peas; frozen potato puffs; canned fruit; canned cream.

Mostly, it seemed to be a matter of thawing and can opening.

"Of course, that is a very simple basic meal," laughed Kathy. "If you want Hungarian goulash, beef stroganoff or something really elaborate, please don't hesitate to call."

My problem, she explained, was a perfectly straightforward one. But many callers had to be quizzed before the home economists could give a menu or other household hints. How ill is the wife? How old are the children? Is the husband out at work all day? Do the youngsters come home midday? Does the home have a refrigerator? (Incredibly, many English families still don't.)

"We've had plenty of jokers on the phone," said Kathy, "but we treat every call seriously. One man asked how to prepare beef curry. We gave him full instructions. Later, he phoned again to say the dish was looking and smelling splendid and would one of the girls come round the corner to his apartment to help him eat it.

"Then we had a woman who said she tossed a pancake—and it was stuck on the ceiling kitchen. What did we advise? So we said, 'Get some steps, climb up and scrape the pancake off.'"

Another call for help from harried male is answered by London "Call-a-Cook" home economist Pam Harvey.

22. Service was set up for men suddenly thrust upon their own in preparation of meals.

SOOKE — The president of Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute, Mrs. J. W. Caine, thanked two members for bringing home the first prize in the Women's Safety Shell Oil Contest. Mrs. D. A. Smith, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. A. W. Smith went over to Vancouver for the competition and received $300 cheque and a framed certificate. This is the third consecutive year that the Sooke Institute has won the safety award.

At a recent meeting there was a large display of Crewel Embroidery and Dorset Stitchery, all exquisitely worked on various backgrounds and in Scandinavian colored threads. The Salada Tea contest held by the Sooke and by the Shirley Women's Institute were admired. Both groups are former prize winners in this contest.

Mrs. Wm. Eddy and Mrs. Edwin Banner, Jr., headed a large committee which collected $800 in Sooke District for the Red Cross campaign, and were applauded for their efforts.

The delegate to the Provincial conference to be held June 5 to 9 in Mrs. Donald Morrison, vice-president.

For the WI District conference of the provincial board of be held at Cobble Hill Thursday, April 21, Mrs. C. A. MacDonald will be delegate. Mrs. J. W. Caine, Mrs. J. J. Porter, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. A. W. Smith, director of the Sooke body also plan to attend. The guest speaker at the meeting was Mr. Leo Tugman, popular host and chef at Sooke Harbour House, Whiffin Spit Road.

Leo, as he is affectionately known, told about his home in Holland, where, out of nine children in the family, six sons are in the restaurant business. He said one of the famous Sooke Harbour House steak recipes is included in a Dallas, Texas cook book.

Leo served an apprenticeship aboard the North American World Cruise Lines. He told of the art of serving the menu as well as telling how to make some of his dishes.

Dr. D. J. Parsons performed the early evening ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Preston and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in an original gown of corded silk, the Sabrish neckline and My point sleeves trimmed with ruffled lace. The controlled skirt opened into a full, sweeping train and was tied with two bridal roses at the back waistline. A headpiece of seed pearls and sweetheart roses held her hair, cathedral veil of unadorned silk flared and she carried a bouquet of red roses and feathered white carnations.

Mrs. Madge Robinson was matron of honor and the Misses Barb Smith and Jackie Russell were bridesmaids.

They were groomed alike in pale mauve brocade floor-length dresses featuring bell skirts. Their mauve net headpieces were topped with yellow flowers and they carried bouquets of pale yellow gladiolus and feathered white carnations. Their single drop pearl necklaces were a gift from the bride.

Mr. Ron Campbell was best man, and showing guests to the pews were Mr. Terrence Lewis, brother of the groom and Mr. Jack Preston, brother of the bride.

The reception was held at the Carlton Club where brilliant crystal chandelier with hanging prisms and tall tapered candles decorated the bride's table. The wedding cake was made by Mrs. Berta Munro.

Leaving for a honeymoon in the United States the new Mrs. Lewis travelled in a two-piece mint green suit with beige accessories.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Gilmour and Mrs. E. Wilson, Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. K. Cameron, Tacoma, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Gardner, Kamloops; Mr. P. Allen, Nanaimo; Mr. L. Higginbotham, Powell River; Mr. J. Hager, Duncan; Mr. and Mrs. R. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Clark, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Rawlings, Vancouver.

Garden Notes

Offer Unconditional

By M. V. CHESNUT

In yesterday's column I told the story of Buttercrunch lettuce, the aristocrat among all lettuce varieties, developed after years of painstaking research by Dr. G. J. Raleigh of Cornell University. I offered to send a packet of seeds of this lettuce, as foolproof and easy to grow, to any of my readers who would like to try them.

While we have a pretty big bagful of these precious seeds, I suggest you get your letter off requesting your gift packet without too much dilly-dallying for, at the rate the seeds are going out of here, we may run short, as we did with the Gloriosa Daisy seeds several years ago. On that occasion I had to substitute different seeds for the last 3,000 requests that came in.

I'd like to point out once again that this is a free gift to all folks who love gardening, not just a reward to faithful Columnist subscribers. It isn't necessary to be a subscriber in order to get your free seeds, nor do you need to have a coupon clipped from the paper; a letter will serve just as well. If your neighbor doesn't take The Columnist, tell her she can have some free seeds too, just by writing me and asking me for them, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

This business of the stamped and self-addressed envelope is very important. Every spring between 20,000 and 40,000 letters arrive at the Columnist office requesting free seeds, and if we had to buy stamps for all these letters, the cost would be prohibitive. Even more important, though, is the work involved. Our girls can handle these thousands of requests ONLY by using your own stamped and self-addressed envelope; this would be an impossible task if we had to prepare and address each envelope ourselves.

Last year, in our Columnist Free Seed offer, I featured only flower seeds, not as a matter of policy but because I couldn't find any vegetable seeds sufficiently unique and interesting to distribute to my gardening friends. I always like to include seeds of something you can eat, though, and when an opportunity arose to import some seeds of Dr. Raleigh's Buttercrunch lettuce, I jumped at the chance.

By far the best lettuce from the standpoint of flavor and texture is the incomparable Kentucky Bibb, often listed as Limestone lettuce. In smart restaurants and luxury hotels it is usually served as a special escarole—sometimes with the "making" brought to your table so you can mix your own dressing—and it will set you back at least one dollar per portion.

This is a pretty stiff price to pay for a simple wedge of lettuce, but there is good reason for it; this is the old law of supply and demand in operation. The stuff is infernally difficult to grow, at the slightest setback, and so there isn't very much of it around. I have never had any luck at all with Limestone lettuce.

Fortunately for those gourmets who would like to grow their own, Dr. Raleigh succeeded in getting the bugs out of Bibb-Limestone by crossing it with one of the easier-to-grow Imperial varieties, and the result is Buttercrunch, as foolproof as Imperial and with a flavor very close to that of the dollar-a-plate Kentucky Bibb.

With Buttercrunch seeds, you could simply bung them in the ground any old how and still get some pretty good lettuce. For enhanced crispness and tenderness, though, there are one or two tricks of the trade, and we'll talk about these tomorrow.

She's Also Related to Alice in Wonderland

Queen, Washington Cousins

Ever since the Pilgrim Fathers stepped ashore at Plymouth Rock the most fertile of the special relationships between Britain and America has been the web of family links spanning the Atlantic. Sometimes they are of more than academic importance.

Harold MacMillan, for example, was not just a friend of sixth cousin twice removed from President Kennedy. He was also an uncle by marriage—though the White House was never too keen on publicizing the link. Implications of the link, is among Washington's closest living relatives.

In the middle of the 18th century Washington's first cousin, Mary, married an Englishman called Robert Farquhar, another Mary, married the 12th Earl of Strathmore. That was in 1853. The marriage flourished and in 1900 a granddaughter appeared—Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, now Queen Elizabeth II.

Genealogically speaking, Queen Elizabeth II is related not only to America's first president, but her fourth cousin twice removed is Alice in Wonderland.

But now the family tree has sprouted the oddest branch of all. A 19th century manuscript

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Alfie's Women Plain

LONDON (NANA)—None of the women in Alfie would win a beauty contest—Jane Asher (once the Beatle Paul McCartney) is prettier in real life than on the screen. Michael Caine gives an ingratiating performance as Alfie, the heel of all time. If he committed an error, it was trying to win sympathy for the nasty little jerk he plays. Shelley Winters who is also good in the picture, told me not long ago that actors are so insecure, they cannot bear to be hated and they try to make the worst character sympathetic. There are some very funny lines in Alfie, but one scene is not only crude, it is sick-making. Tippi Hedron actually landed in her seat at the premiere.

You always think of Alice in Wonderland as a girl with blue eyes and long blonde hair. But Jonathan Miller—late of Beyond the Fringe—is searching for a brunette, an Italian type girl for the Alice he is producing for BBC. And guess who he wants for the caterpillar—Noel Coward. And his Fringe chums Peter Cook and Dudley Moore for the Mad Hatter and the Brown Mouse. The plan is to show it here at Christmas.

Judy Garland's pride, daughter Lisa, is coming to London this month to star at the Talk of the Town. Only the top performers appear—the last time I saw Sophie Tucker was at the Talk. And Lena Horne. Lisa has appeared here at the Palladium with her mother. Now she will be on her own. She was a hit in her recent New York club engagement. I'm not worried about her in London. As for Judy, well, she has been cancelling some engagements. If only one knew the right advice to give her. I've always thought she should have a carefree rest. But this is not always possible, and Judy needs the money.

Hedy Lamarr in Sydney has been with electronics tycoon, Walter Dubrow, who has a financial interest in the Broadway Theatre where Hedy has promised to star in Kind Sir this summer. I hope Dubrow is a kind sir. Hedy can use some kind lady-ling... Troy Donahue says he doubts very much whether he will marry again—and him so young... The brief Mr. and Missing with Suzanne Pleshette seems to have left some heart scars. Troy, who loves the sun, is now in Jamaica for eight weeks with Red On Red, a James Bond type picture. Is there anything else?

A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Guillotine will star as many of the Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, cast as are available when the Mel Frank production goes before the cameras next year. As Mel himself says, this is the first time that a sequel has been planned before the release of the first film—which in this case stars Zero Mostel and Phil Silvers. Mel made the forum film in Madrid. The heads will roll for the guillotine in the same city.

Richard Harris's blonde, beautiful wife was simply terrific on the Eamonn Andrews' TV interview show with Bea Lyons, Jeanne Carson and Lee Marvin. I can't imagine why Mrs. Harris is not a movie star. She is as bright as she is lovely to look at. Lee seemed somewhat uncomfortable and there was a bit of awkwardness when he said that his children, four of them, were strangers to him and he to them. It was an honest remark but everyone is supposed to go into raptures about their children and their mothers.

Robert Vaughn has an option on Nobody Loves An Albatross, in which Robert Preston starred on Broadway. The characters were supposed to be thinly disguised portraits of Cy Howard and Lucille Ball—the man was a writer for television, and the woman a president of the company. "I hope to make it as a film next spring during my TV hiatus," Robert told me, adding, "and of course I will offer the leading woman's role to Lucille Ball." I hate to discourage him so soon, but Lucille did not care for the caricature and it would be very surprised if she accepts the offer. No, what Lucille must do, for the screen, is Hello Dolly.

SYDNEY HARRIS

In one of his books, Arthur Koestler tells about a friend of his who was given a Picasso drawing which she thought was a reproduction. She hung the picture in a rather inconspicuous place on her staircase.

A few months later, however, she learned that the drawing was an original—whereupon she quickly removed it to a place of honor over the fireplace mantel in the living room. As a valuable "original" it delighted and thrilled visitors who had not given it a second glance before.

Koestler then asked the question: had the picture changed? Yes and no—it had not changed artistically or physically, but it had symbolically. Its intrinsic merit was no different, but its importance as a status symbol had multiplied a hundredfold.

This is equivalent, of course, to the stories that turn up every decade or so, in which a Heifetz goes out into the street and plays the fiddle inognito for a few coins, and is unrecognized as a great concert violinist. In the dynamics of cultural snobbery (as in social mobbery), it is the appearance and not the reality that really matters.

For most of us live by names, and not by things. Americans, for instance, still believe that any titled Englishman is an aristocrat, although the British know that there is as much difference between one "Lord" and another as there is between a duke and a dustman.

And most of us lack the ability to tell the real thing in any field outside our own. Many years ago, on the coast of France, there was held a "Charlie Chaplin" contest during a fiesta, in which the entrants made up like Chaplin and imitated his screen mannerisms. Unknown to the others, Chaplin himself entered the contest—and came off with only third prize!

Speaking of the screen, it is sadly true that many of the "sex symbols" of American filmdom have been actresses who did not feel sexy at all, but were frightened, depressed and suicidal in their emotional lives. The reality of the personalities had nothing at all to do with the image projected by vast publicity campaigns—which they soon grew to hate and despise as distortions of their true selves.

Ninety per cent of our judgments are based on appearance; this is why the "image industry" has become so important in manipulating public opinion. Today, for instance, we identify beards with "beatniks"; in our grandfathers' time, the beard was a symbol of dignity, of respectability, of all the bourgeois virtues so flouted by the bearded contingent of today.

Distinguishing between the substance and the image, between the appearance and the reality, may be the hardest task confronting the human race. In the case of Picasso, it is, admittedly a job for an expert; but in the case of picking presidents, prime ministers or choosing mates, we often go just as rightlously wrong, taking the label for the contents.

Chrysler's George Huebner and turbine engine

Turbine Cars' Future Still Question Mark

DETROIT (AP) — The future of Chrysler's glamorous turbine-powered car still is a question mark.

That was made clear Tuesday at a press conference Chrysler called to report on progress in the long, drawn-out, multi-million-dollar turbine program.

Chrysler, experimenting with turbine-powered cars since 1952, moved the program into high gear in October, 1963, when it put the first of 50 turbines in the hands of volunteer drivers.

MOST STATES Since then, the whoosh sound of the turbine car has been heard in every state except Alaska and Hawaii, with 303 drivers piling up more than 1,100,000 miles behind the wheel.

Chrysler received detailed tape recorded and computerized reports from all the drivers as to whether they thought the turbine car was practical for use on North American highways.

The turbine had been one of the most widely discussed projects on the automotive scene and when Chrysler called its press conference many reporters thought a decision had been reached.

LATER THIS YEAR Harry Chesebrough, Chrysler vice-president of product planning and development, ended that speculation in a hurry when he said:

"A decision about moving into the next phase of our turbine programs will be made late this spring or early summer, after we have made further progress in an engine development and testing program."

TWO TOP MEN Two of the top men in Chrysler's turbine program reported in remarks prepared for the press conference. They were George Huebner, Jr., Chrysler director of research and development, and Dr. David Miller, Chrysler's manager of marketing and consumer research.

One of their main admissions was that some users were disappointed in the test cars' fuel consumption.

Miller put it this way: "About one person in four expressed disappointment with fuel economy. It is difficult to assess the seriousness of this."

Two Years to Leave France

U.S. Sets Own Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Re-electing President de Gaulle's one-year mandate deadline, the United States Tuesday set a two-year time for her military pullout from France and warned that French NATO units stand to lose quickly their access to American atomic arms.

In a separate statement, State Secretary Dean Rusk in Paris-Match.

The U.S. position on French military disengagement from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and demand for removal of U.S. bases and some 30,000 troops from French soil was set forth in a diplomatic note to Paris, France and her NATO allies have been trading a stream of messages since the French formally declared their intent a month ago.

WILL LEAVE NATO

De Gaulle, who says the unified NATO defense structure is outmoded and impinges on French sovereignty, has served from the integrated military system as of July 1 next. He wants NATO military headquarters and U.S. and Canadian bases out of France by April, 1967.

Tuesday's U.S. note cited de Gaulle's avowed intent to keep France a member of the basic North Atlantic treaty, even though leaving the NATO structure which was set up under the treaty. Four of the main U.S.-French pacts covering American military activities in France are supposed to last as long as the treaty unless terminated by mutual consent, the U.S. note said.

NO TERMINAL DATE

The 1949 treaty has no terminal date.

Noting that the 1953 U.S.-French communications system agreement allows for termination, the note said that the U.S. would permit termination of the four other agreements only according to such means as provided by the 1953 agreement.

Nonetheless, "the United States

States intends to remove its facilities from France as promptly as possible in view of the attitude of the French government," the note stated.

The diplomatic communication also questioned why NATO headquarters should be removed from France within a year and told Paris — without naming a specific sum — that it may be called to account for financial costs and left the door open for negotiations for keeping some U.S.-built facilities in France.

Two Killed, 11 Hurt As Storm Hits Liner

GENOA, Italy (AP) — A violent Atlantic storm caused two deaths aboard the Italian luxury liner Michelangelo, injured 11 persons and damaged the ship, the company announced here Tuesday night.

The government-run Italia Shipping Line, owner of the 44,000-ton Michelangelo, identified one of the dead as J. Steinbach, an American industrialist. The other was identified only as Werner Berndt.

The company at its headquarters here said the ship, which left April 7 for New York, was hit by a storm of "exceptional violence" at 1:20 p.m. Tuesday.

The company said the storm

Manpower Shortage Hits Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The manpower shortage struck home Tuesday at the labor department.

Its executive dining room was closed "because of insufficient help."

A spokesman for government Services, Inc., the private firm that runs the dining room, said the absenteeism rate was unusually high in all government cafeterias.

"The labor market is rough today for people in our business," he added.

Throttle Defect

Chrysler Recalls New Cars

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corporation acknowledged Tuesday it was calling back about 17,500 new Dodge cars to fix a throttle defect. But it said a U.S. senator was wrong in calling the fault a safety problem.

Senator Walter Mondale (D-Minn.) disclosed the call-back in Washington Tuesday and criticized Chrysler for not telling Dodge owners the flaw could be dangerous. Robert Kline, Detroit, service manager for Chrysler's Dodge division, told members of Mondale's staff the defect "did involve a safety factor," the senator said.

NO SAFETY FACTOR But Chrysler said it "did not involve any safety factor."

Chrysler said it had told its dealers to urge owners of the 296 Dodge Monacos and Polara to bring in their cars so the throttle linkage could be lengthened. A sudden stop could stretch the linkage, Chrysler said, permanently boosting the engine's idling speed.

MOVE FORWARD

The Chrysler spokesman acknowledged this would mean a car with an automatic transmission might move forward too quickly if the driver took his foot off the brake.

Asked whether this would be dangerous at an intersection, the spokesman said Chrysler "will stand on our statement" that no safety factor was involved.

'Magnet' Tugged Headlights

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Police are studying a mysterious "magnetic" column of light in the sky which may have led a driver to his death.

Donald Sullivan, 35, a steel construction worker, was driving one night when his headlights suddenly swerved right, as though drawn by a magnet.

"I braked as hard as I could and glided over to the right," he said.

There in the middle of the field was a column of colored light about 25 feet high and shaped like an ice cream cone.

The column rose from the ground without a sound but at tremendous speed and the car's headlights returned to normal, focusing back on the road, he said.

Three days later, last Thursday, Gary Taylor, 32, died when his car swerved sharply at the same spot and crashed into a tree.

Voice 'Fingerprinter' Used in Court Case

NEW YORK (AP) — A revolutionary device called the voiceprint that may come to rival the fingerprint as a method of criminal identification has been accepted as evidence in a jury case, its inventor says.

The inventor, Lawrence G. Kersta, 35, a physicist, appeared in court to demonstrate how the voiceprint works.

Judge Robert Dempsey ruled Monday that the new form of identification could be used by the state in the case of a suspended policeman charged with perjury.

It would be the first time that the device would be introduced as evidence in court although some police departments are known to be experimenting with it.

Kersta, a former employee of Bell Telephone Laboratories Inc., has developed an electronic method of converting the voice into wave-looking picture displays known as spectrograms.

These measure the physical characteristics of a voice, each of which is unique, Kersta says.

Kersta says he has supervised the production of 10,000 voiceprints with 97 per cent accuracy.

OVERSULED Judge Dempsey overruled two defense lawyers Monday in the trial of George M. Strachan, who is accused of being a grand jury in denying that he had warned a gambler of an impending raid in 1961. The lawyers charged that Kersta's technique was unproven.

However, the judge asked Kersta to show the voiceprints made of Strachan's, based on an alleged telephone call he made to the matter of the state of New York. Kersta, who is now in the custody of the state, is charged with perjury.

Five Swept Overboard In Storm

ARGENTIA, N.M. (CP) —

Five men were given up for lost Tuesday when they were swept overboard and the deck of the British freighter Chumal, 600 miles southeast of here in a wild Atlantic storm.

A spokesman at the United States naval base here said the 441-ton Chumal was leaving the area after losing track of debris washed overboard at the same time in high winds and heavy seas.

NO IDENTIFICATION Her home port and destination were not known, and the identities of the men were not available.

A U.S. Coast Guard aircraft originally diverted to aid the Chumal was recalled to base when it was learned the ship had given up the search. Air and sea craft, including the coast guard cutter Bibb, had been diverted to the search area, after earlier being sent to aid another distressed vessel.

The Liberator tanker Rokos developed a severe leak in one of her holds and was first thought to be sinking 450 miles southeast of here early Tuesday.

The 2,000-ton Rokos, with 45 men aboard, later reported the hole in her side was patched and she was continuing on to New Brunswick with a cargo of oil from Greece.

The flooding had been brought under control and the ship was out of danger.

The Rokos and the Chumal were hit by winds of 35 to 45 miles an hour, rain, fog and high seas from a storm which covered a wide area of the main Atlantic shipping lane.

Old Policies, Spying Hit

By PAUL DUNN

OTTAWA (CP) — In a 38-point brief beginning over with criticism of the post office department, the Canadian Union of Postal Workers Tuesday demanded remedies to avoid another crisis in the service.

The 11,000 - member union made its points in a brief to the royal commission headed by Mr. Justice Andre Monpetit of the Quebec Superior Court which is investigating working conditions in the post office department.

The one-man commission, established by the government Sept. 1, 1965, after the two-week postal strike last summer crippled mail delivery in three provinces, has visited some 40 centres across Canada from St. John's, Nfld., to Vancouver.

REPORT SOON The commission is investigating grievances by postal workers outlined during the strike. It is expected to report this summer.

Tuesday's brief took a swipe at just about every area of working conditions in the department and included a jab at certain other civil service staff associations which it termed "company unions."

MEMBERS EXCLUDED Heading the union's grievances was the exclusion of its members from the full collective bargaining procedures of the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act.

Disputes arising from the Act covered a wide area of "company unions." On this point it says: "It is the union's firm conviction that unless acceptable legislation is enacted granting full bargaining rights, then the next crisis in the postal service will again be upon us."

Personnel and equipment policies were termed "archaic, obsolete practices"; sections of the Post Office Act gave the postmaster general "carte blanche to practice the worst kind of personnel policy imaginable"; and other statutes explained why the department "spawns so many inept and confused supervisors."

The union says "managerial patronage has insulated itself in place of the merit principle" in promotions and calls for abolition of the present efficiency rating system.

"Spying devices in post offices must be eliminated. The observation galleries, peepholes, collect-flush-stop devices and all other degrading gadgets are in daily use... spying upon employees using sick and casual sick leave must be discontinued immediately."

TO HALT PILFERING (The peep-holes and toilet devices have been used by the department to stop pilfering from the mails—a difficult type of theft to detect and prove. The toilet gadget prevents possible evidence being flushed away.)

The union seeks curtailment of employment of part-time and casual employees; elimination of all-but-necessary weekend work; greater night differential and overtime pay; introduction of a comprehensive training program to replace the "completely inadequate" one; longevity pay and liberalization of special leaves; and two daily 15-minute coffee breaks.

EFFORTS THWARTED Past efforts by the union to seek redress of grievances "have been thwarted by the fact that a preponderant number of civil servants are loosely organized into associations which are excluded from the Canadian Labor Congress were excluded from this criticism."

FROM SCOTLAND YARD Commissioner McClelland said the set at headquarters here was first used Jan. 22 for a transmission from Scotland Yard which sought positive identification of a Canadian-born drug addict charged with wilful damage.

"We went there by name and criminal record within two hours," said the commissioner.

Britain employs such a network but the United States has none at present. The RCMP hopes for an eventual link with the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington.

The commissioner said "RCMP headquarters was able to identify 64 per cent of the fraudulent cheques flown here last year by other headquarters within the force."

HEPDED He hoped this would be improved and speeded up with the network.

Wirephoto networks have existed in Canada for several years. Transmitters operated by the department of transport for weather maps and by the Canadian Press to its newspapers and television stations can be photographed cells across a revolving map or picture at 100 or 135 lines per inch.

IN 32 SECONDS The RCMP equipment will scan at 200 lines per inch, with a comparable improvement in quality. The receiver employs photographic paper which is developed within the unit in 22 seconds following the nine-minute transmission.

The optical unit is manufactured by Multimed Instruments Ltd. of London, England. A Canadian branch of the company at Stratford, Ont., makes the power-supply unit for the receiver.

Fingerprints, Mug Shots Go by Wire

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP Tuesday demonstrated the first units of Wirephoto equipment for a network it hopes eventually to extend to every major police office in Canada.

Receivers on the system will be able to copy mug shots, bad cheques, documents, and even fingerprints in faithful detail.

The network arises from January's federal-provincial conference on organized crime, which completed a $15,000,000 expansion of RCMP criminal intelligence facilities.

FOUR CENTRES The network will take in only RCMP headquarters in Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver this year. Another dozen or so divisional RCMP headquarters will be added within five years. This will encompass every provincial capital and such cities as Calgary, Saskatoon.

RCMP Commissioner George B. McClelland said during a demonstration of the equipment that he expects provincial and municipal police forces to join the network, "especially in areas of organized crime."

In Tuesday's demonstration, a set of fingerprints was transmitted from a room at RCMP headquarters through a telecommunications loop extending 3,000 miles to Winnipeg and back, simulating the distance to Vancouver. The transmission was copied by a receiver in the same room.

The untrained eye could spot no appreciable difference between the original and the copy.

BREITHEN-MADE The British-made components will be leased to the RCMP by Canadian National - Canadian Pacific telecommunications at a cost of $500 to $800 a month per set. This would put lease costs at about $100,000 for 16 RCMP stations when the network is in full swing.

Monks' Lives Lead To Self-Improvement

By KILEEN LEABOYD
Last of a Series

My last night in India was spent in a palace built for a Maharaja.

It is now a residence for members of the American Embassy in New Delhi. It is located in the moonlight—white marble can be said to float—emerging from a sea of palms and bougainvilleas.

Around Garden

The palace was built around an inner garden where every leaf looked like a flower, and every flower looked like a jewel. There was a walk, surrounded in marble, around the perimeter of the garden and the central square was roofless, but for the night and the stars.

Being the house guest of Paul Hume and his beautiful wife Alki, they had taken me along to a dinner party given by first secretary of the American Embassy, Nicholas Vellote, and his wife Pat.

A former Victorian, Paul Hume is head of the Asia Bureau of the Chicago Daily News. After 30 years in the Orient, three of them in New Delhi, Paul knows and is known by everyone who is newsworthy in the Far East. Adding to his considerable reputation, Paul and Alki had just returned from a hunt in Nepal, where he had bagged a 6-foot 6-inch tiger.

The roar of the tigers had been silenced two days before, but Paul had to repeat the terrifying tale of the hunt many times during the evening.

Soft Music

The party was given in rooms with 30-foot ceilings—so high that the chandeliers and the candlelight couldn't banish all the shadows. Soft music played. Matchless servants drifted in and out.

As I was introduced to Sam Bunker, head of the Ford Foundation for India (his father, Elsworth Bunker, is former ambassador to India and now a roving ambassador for Johnson), Roger Kirk, whose father was American Ambassador to Moscow, press attaché Jack Shirley, Marvin Zim, chief of the Asia Bureau for Time Magazine, their wives and others, I had a strange sense of unreality.

Pristine Appeal

Just two days before, I had been living in an ashram—a monastic retreat—in the Himalayas. Here the music had been the chatter of monkeys and the cry of peacocks. It had a pristine appeal all its own, and was hard to describe.

They kept asking me where I had been, and I replied, "In the North."

"But seven weeks in the North? What did you do?"

Finally, I tried to tell them about it, and found people sitting on the floor around me.

That's why it is said, "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing." Even direct experience can be misleading. For example, it is our experience that the sun rises each day in the East and sets in the West. Yet the truth is that the sun never moves.

One Purpose

The head of the ashram—the Maharishi—says one purpose of life, is to raise the individual level of consciousness. This means the individual ability to know, to create, to direct his existence.

When this level is raised, everything must appear different—as different as looking out of the body with the eyes of a three-year-old child, and later with the eyes of an adult. Then the "view from the sky" changes.

The abstract is always hard to explain. That is why people struggle with 600-page books over one single elusive idea. I think this is because they must explain each new idea from many angles... like the approach to a six-sided cube.

After all, each side of a pair of dice is differently marked. How does one explain a phrase like, "expansion of consciousness"? Education—all forms of education—could be said to be an expansion of consciousness.

The man is the person at the bottom of a skyscraper has a different view from a person looking from the top. That is to say, each view is a true view, but one can only see from the angle at which he is placed, and until the person at the bottom has climbed to the top, he has a limited consciousness of that situation.

New Attitude

The Maharishi thinks an improved kind of individual can be created by conditioning the nervous system to adopt a different attitude, taking what we know as the "T" of the waking state, the "D" of the deep sleep state and the "R" of the dream state, to a state beyond all three, whereby it has new experience.

It is a fascinating thought. It seems the world as a whole is moving in a direction where personal experience is more satisfying than the testimony of others.

Safe Exploration

Even the sometimes clumsy and dangerous self-experiments with the drug LSD would indicate this trend, but the Maharishi and a few like him, have been making this exploration safely for centuries.

He says it is now time for these things to be placed in the open to help all races, "for we are in the age of science."

I hope it will improve me! Meanwhile three people at the party said they were going north.

I wonder if they made it?

Victoria Premiers' Parley

Universities In Spotlight

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson and Finance Minister Sharp are expected to meet provincial premiers and treasurers in Victoria early in June to work out a long-range policy for federal aid to higher education.

But other important issues in federal-provincial relations are not likely to be tackled until this autumn and winter when a series of conferences and consultations will begin, seeking a new deal to go into effect next spring.

Prime Minister Pearson suggested in January that the Victoria meeting consider financial problems of universities. Subject to possible June elections in Quebec and Manitoba, it appears the Victoria conference will be held June 2-3.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia, host for the conference to mark the centennial of the union in 1866 of the colonies of British Columbia and Vancouver Island, has announced the dates and said the main item on the agenda will be university education. A spokesman for Mr. Pearson said here that one or two other topics may be included at the request of the provinces.

Mr. Pearson advised the provinces Jan. 17 by letter that the federal government would raise its $2-per-capita university grants to $5 for the 1966-67 academic year, with a promise that the formula for a long-range policy would be studied at a conference.

Meanwhile, the subject of new tax-sharing arrangements between Ottawa and the provinces, replacing those which expire next March 31, awaits recommendations of the provincial committee.

An official said it is unlikely that the tax structure committee will complete its work in time for the Victoria meeting. The committee's practical deadline is sometime this fall, after the Carter royal commission report on taxation has been released and digested. The report, after frequent postponements, now is expected to be issued about the time of the Victoria meeting.

Federal Expenditures

The Canadian Tax Foundation based on federal grants to the universities at the present scale, expenditures on education this year will amount to $248,187,000, including $27,730,000 in federal grants to the universities. The total also includes Indian and Eskimo education, and grants to vocational training schools.

The university grants are paid by Ottawa to the association of universities and colleges of Canada for distribution to the universities outside Quebec. In Quebec, payments are made by the provincial government from a tax abatement Ottawa makes, with adjusting grants to bring the scale of payment into line with the rest of Canada. The $248,187,000 cited by the tax foundation, however, is based on federal grants to the universities at the present scale. Prime Minister Pearson said in his letters to the premiers they should expect the federal grants to universities alone to amount to at least $89,185,000 in the coming academic year. A university inquiry commission headed by Dean Vincent Bladen of the University of Toronto recommended federal grants amounting to $330,000,000 a year, rising to more than $500,000,000 in 1970. When Ottawa's current spending programs on Indian and Eskimo education and vocational training grants are taken into account, the gross figure of Ottawa expenditures on education would be much higher.

District: Good Youth: Bored For Sale: Sex

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto sociologist says a group of Grade 7 and 8 boys and girls from "a good, average, Toronto neighborhood, were involved in a prostitution ring five years ago.

The sociologist, a woman, asked that her identity remain a secret to avoid possible attempts to pinpoint the school. She said the children, a dozen of each sex, were "bored and precocious."

Her remarks were made in an interview published in The Telegram.

"Social workers helping a couple of the boys on a recreation program stumbled accidentally on what was going on. They alerted parents and it was broken up. Police weren't called in."

She said the girls took money but the ring was "not as organized" as one described last week by Mrs. J. H. Schaffter, wife of the rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church in Mount Hope.

Mrs. Schaffter told delegates at the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations here that girls in an unidentified southern Ontario community had charged $1 for 15 minutes.

Thief Climbed Social Ladder

OTTAWA (CP)—It looked as though Guy Rene Roussy picked his victims by thumbing through Who's Who.

The 16-year-old youth pleaded guilty in county court Tuesday to breaking into homes owned by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker; Trade Minister Winters; Gen. S. F. Clark, former chief of the army staff and chairman of the national capital commission; Dr. R. L. Bird, a member of the medical advisory commission of the Canadian pension commission; retired air marshal Hugh Campbell; Col. I. C. Edwards, head of the British Information Service; and Cmdr. F. J. D. Pemberton, comptroller in the Governor-General.

Roussy took more than $310 in cash and several rings from the homes, all in the plush Rockcliffe Park Village adjoining Ottawa.

Teachers Vote To End 'Departmentals'

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. school teachers voted Monday night to press for abolition of departmental high school leaving examinations.

The move came in the final moments of the opening day of the 18,000-member B.C. teachers federation annual convention.

The vote was not unanimous. Objections voiced in lengthy debate on the issue centred on fears that without departmental examinations—which high school teachers help to set and mark—the universities would take over setting university entrance examinations as they do in the U.S.

The result, said dissenters, would be university entrance exams with no guaranteed relation to the high school curriculum.

In a close vote the teachers turned down a middle of the road proposal, that would have suggested the leaving examination be considered with 50 per cent of university entrance qualifications. Teacher's evaluation of the pupil's abilities would make up the other 50 per cent.

Also passed, but only after revision, was a recommendation for limited changes in the promotion and grading systems in elementary and secondary schools.

Ontario Couple Finally Wins Hong Kong Child

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — The long, anxious wait is just about over for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mair of Burlington.

Their newest child will be with them soon.

The Mairs battled red tape for a year before they finally received permission to adopt a founding girl from Hong Kong, and the two-year-old child is being prepared for the long trip to Canada and an opportunity she probably would never get in Hong Kong.

Bride, Groom Dead After Crash

LYTTON (CP) — A young Salmon Arm couple, married only since Saturday, were fatally injured Monday when their car plunged off the Trans-Canada Highway as they were returning to the interior centre to make their home.

Dead are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Edward Turner who were married at the coast Saturday. RCMP said their car plunged off the highway at Jackson Mountain, about 14 miles south of this Fraser Canyon community. It was snowing when their car spun out of control.

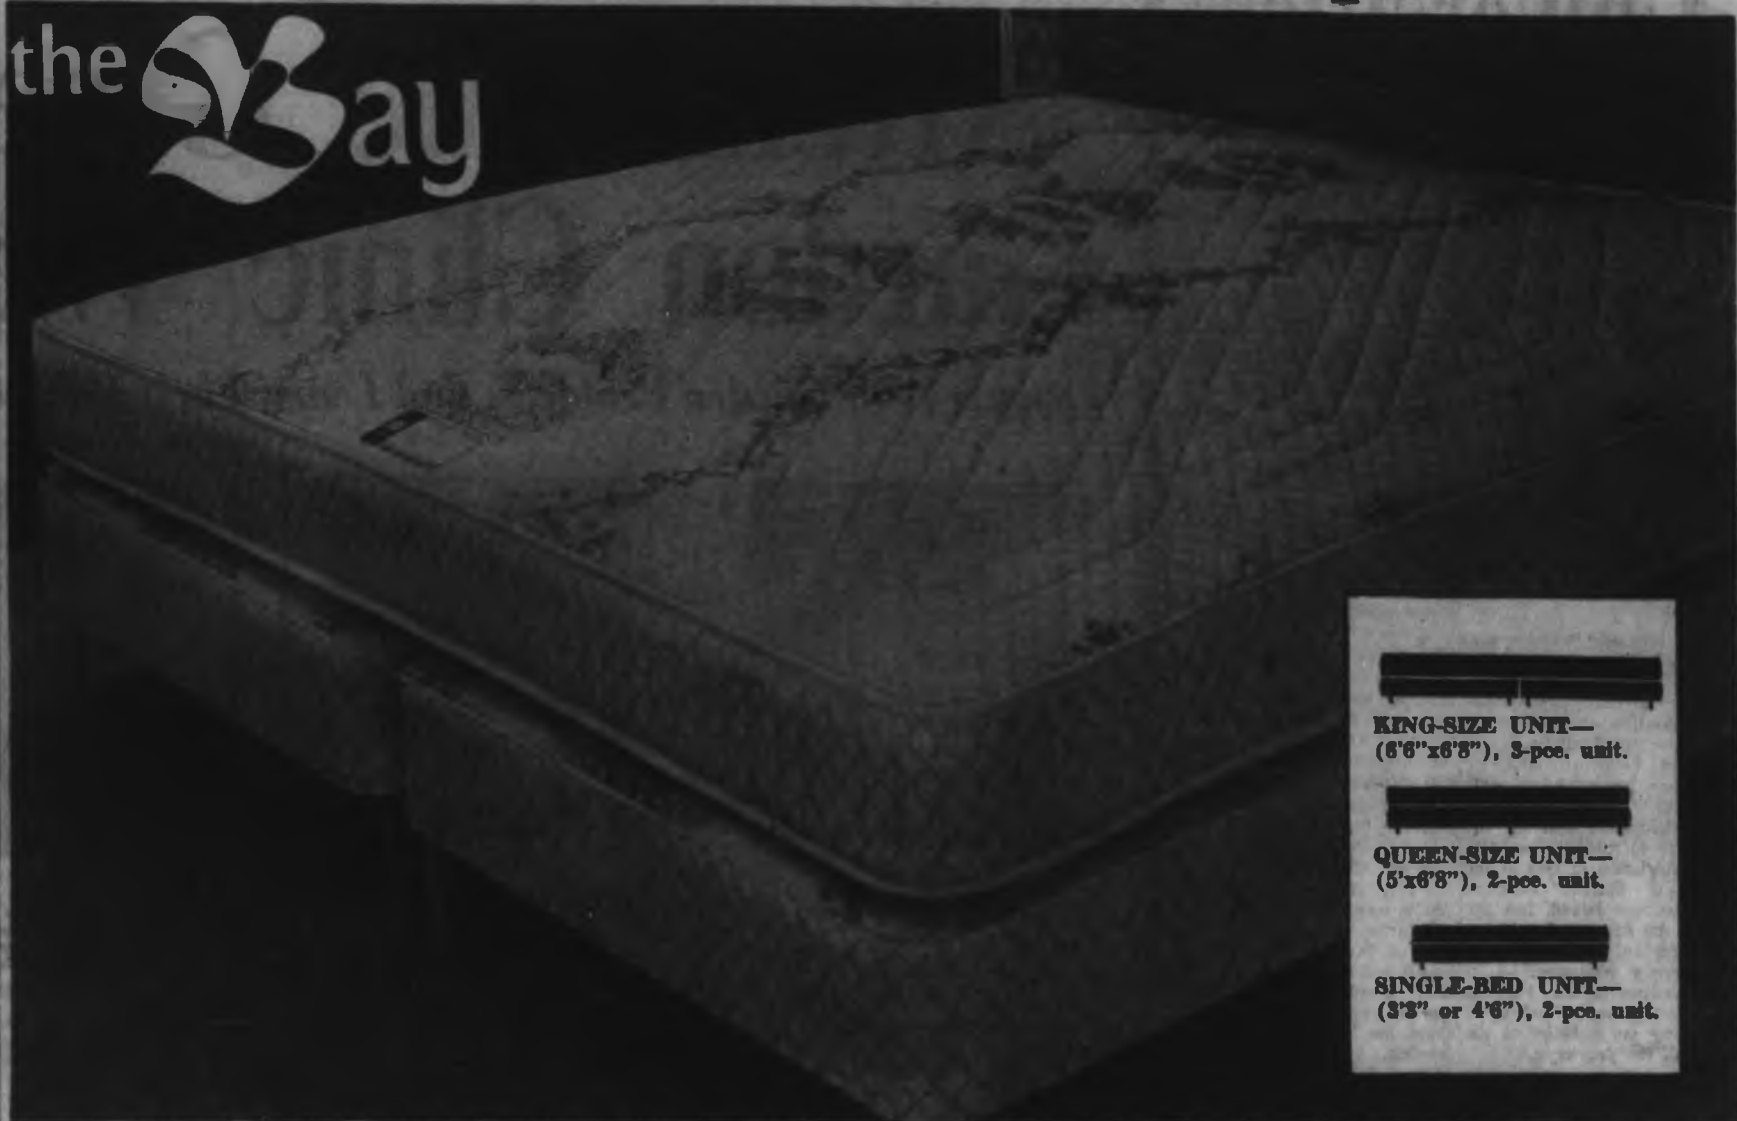

Mrs. Turner, 18, the former Linda Thurston of Vancouver, died in Lytton hospital some hours after the accident. Her 21-year-old husband died two hours later.

Desire to Retire Strengthened

By LOUIS B. FLEMING
UNITED NATIONS (LAT)—Secretary General U Thant is unusually depressed and discouraged about the world situation and the peace-making role of the United Nations.

His depression has strengthened his desire to retire from the world organization when his term expires in November, but he will reserve his decision until June.

However, most of his colleagues expect him to bow to the realities of the situation and agree to continue as secretary general.

He is particularly discouraged now by two old problems and one new one:

● The inability to make a constructive move toward settling the war in Viet Nam, which he regards as the ultimate problem.

● The postponement by the French of a voluntary contribution to the United Nations, although there may be second thoughts in Paris when Thant sees President Charles de Gaulle on April 30.

● The failure of UN peace-keeping missions to achieve political solutions, particularly in Cyprus.

Thant hinted broadly at his depression in his press conference last week. It was a desultory affair. He appeared almost apathetic on some issues, spoke quite frankly about his failures in three years of peace efforts in Southeast Asia and spoke with particular conviction when he said he would be glad to step aside if another secretary general could be found.

Cong Explode Bloody Attack

SAIGON (AP)—The Viet Cong exploded a bloody 20-minute mortar attack on Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base early today, killing seven Americans and one South Vietnamese engineer and wounding 155 other persons.

U.S. officials said seven aircraft were damaged and the mortar shells blew up a fuel dump.

The American dead included six army men and one sailor. Among the wounded were 20 air force men, 77 other U.S. servicemen, and 58 South Vietnamese.

TV PLANE
The five U.S. aircraft damaged included an F-100 Super Sabre fighter bomber and one TVC-122. The latter is the craft that provides television relay to Saigon.

Armed U.S. helicopter crews raced aloft to hit back at the Viet Cong and said they hit some mortar emplacements.

MAULING FIGHT
The raid on the airport, only four miles from the heart of this South Vietnamese capital, followed up a mauling attack by Viet Cong—after two weeks of evasion—on a rifle company in a U.S. 1st Infantry Division operation 40 miles east of Saigon.

The company's casualties were officially described as heavy.

The bloody jungle fight, the first U.S. B-52 bomber raid on North Viet Nam and a flurry of 36 missions north of the border dividing the two Viet Nams by smaller U.S. planes had highlighted military reports in a war shadowed by the Saigon political crisis.

Next Move To Be Buddhist

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP)—The next move in South Viet Nam's political struggle appears to be up to the Buddhists. There is little doubt the Buddhists are ready to make it, perhaps as a show of force.

HALF DELEGATES
Only 92 delegates, roughly half the number invited, showed up.

NO CONFIDENCE
Before boycotting the congress, leaders of the unified Buddhist struggle group declared they have no confidence in promises of the military government headed by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and Nguyen Van Thieu, chiefs of state.

PROCEDURE TAKES TIME
The Buddhists are demanding the election of a civilian government "in a very short time."

IN SIX MONTHS
Top government officials talk in terms of completing such action in six months. There is no indication the Buddhists are willing to wait that long.

Addressing the opening session of the congress, Thieu said:

"If the people want to have an elected government in the shortest time possible, this desire is also ours."

Red Chinese Pilots Down U.S. Plane

TOKYO (AP)—China accused the United States today of aerial attacks on Chinese fishing boats and said its air force downed a U.S. military craft over the Chinese mainland.

In Washington, the defense department announced a U.S. Navy KA-3B tanker plane was overdue on a flight from the Philippines to South Viet Nam, but did not refer to the Chinese claim. The same U.S. announcement did not acknowledge the plane was lost.

A broadcast by the official New China news agency said the U.S. aircraft, described as an KA-3B attack plane, was downed Tuesday. It made no mention of crew.

The KA-3B normally has a crew of three.

Peking said the U.S. plane was shot down over Luichow Peninsula, Kwangtung Province, which faces North Viet Nam across the Gulf of Tonkin.

U.S. defense department sources said if the tanker plane did penetrate into Communist territory it was probably due to a navigational error. The area is well away from South Vietnamese waters.

After announcing the downing of the plane, another Peking broadcast said two Chinese fishermen were killed and 15 wounded in attacks by four U.S. planes April 7 on the high seas in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Whooping Cranes
Head for Canada

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The interior department said Tuesday that 43 of the 44 whooping cranes in the world's last live flock have left the Aransas Wildlife Refuge on the Texas Gulf coast for their summer nesting grounds near Canada's Great Slave Lake.

The department said the lone crane that failed to take off with about 14 of his companions was sighted on Matagorda Island, adjacent to Aransas.

The bird, named Searneck because of the irregular arrangement of his sparse neckfeathers, is an individualist.

Ioanna V To Pump Oil Today

BEIRA, Mozambique (Reuters)—The Greek tanker Ioanna V will begin pumping half of its oil into storage tanks here today, informed shipping sources said.

The sources said it was intended to pump the oil into the new storage tanks being built in the dock area and not directly into the 189-mile pipeline leading from Beira to Rhodesia's Umtali refinery.

There was no official confirmation here that the Ioanna, focal point of Britain's efforts to prevent oil from reaching breakaway Rhodesia, would begin discharging its cargo.

RUSH TANKS
But the sources said an all-out effort was being made to finish construction of the dock storage tanks to accommodate 9,600 tons of the Ioanna's 18,000-ton cargo of crude oil.

A tight security net was thrown around the ship as the Panamanian flag was run up and English lettering of the vessel's name painted on the bows over the Greek symbols.

GREECE ACTS
The Ioanna V berthed here Monday after riding at anchor in the harbor for a week. The Greek government cancelled her registration because she came to this Portuguese African port despite international sanctions aimed at keeping land-locked Rhodesia from getting oil.

The sanctions were applied against Rhodesia after the white minority ruled British colony seized independence Nov. 11.

SEARCH FOR VALVE
Reliable sources here said a search was on for a reduction valve which would connect the Ioanna V to the 189-mile pipeline across Mozambique to Rhodesia and allow the ship to discharge her cargo.

In Panama City, however, the Panama foreign ministry announced Tuesday night it was

Voyages in Space

Hibernation Coming for Man?

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A space scientist reported Tuesday that new experiments with hibernating hamsters raise hope for eventually inducing temporary hibernating powers in man—for long space voyages and for food conservation during times of famine.

Dr. R. R. Chaffee of the University of Missouri's Space

Science Research Centre also said that an ability to make men go into hibernation and slow their bodies' demands by cooling them could greatly extend the time available for surgeons in performing critical operations.

He told about it in a report to the opening of the convention of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology—a convocation of nearly 20,000 scientists.

Declaring the Syrian hamster is the only inbred hibernating laboratory animal—but that not all of them have such powers—Dr. Chaffee told of genetic experiments in which the ability to hibernate gradually was increased over several generations in some families and reduced in others.

He said this suggests that only a few hereditary genes may be involved in the hibernation process, and further suggests the possibility of producing a race of hamsters which would all be hibernators and another race lacking any power to go into hibernating sleep.

Passenger a c accommodation and cargo space are inside the hull. Instead of suspended below it as in earlier airships, Propulsion is by two huge propellers at the tail. A cruising speed of 95 miles an hour compared with the Hindenburg's 78.

Inside the hull there is also hangar space for an 18-seater aircraft for ferrying passengers to and from the airship while it is in full flight—an idea pioneered by the U.S. Navy 25 years ago.

"For low density freight such as small aircraft, motor cars and other bulky manufactured equipment, the airship would offer lowest per ton-mile costs between factory and destination," says Prof. Morse. The reactor, claims the professor, could be made strong enough to withstand a crash without releasing dangerous radioactive products.

Only IWA Man, Son Ever Aided Spencer

VANCOUVER (CP)—George Victor Spencer believed nobody ever helped him except a man—and his son—he identified as an executive of the Communist Party of Canada.

Spencer felt his life was a nightmare of bureaucratic red tape. And aside from the man and his son "I cannot remember anyone giving me a helping hand," he wrote shortly before his death.

Spencer's handwritten notes were disclosed Tuesday by E. Jervis Bloomfield, a postal employee here who was collaborating with Spencer to produce a booklet.

Spencer, 61, an accused spy, was found dead in his house Saturday night only four days before a judicial inquiry was to open into his dismissal from the post office here.

Leg Up At Last In Smithers

SMITHERS (CP)—One of the heroes of Smithers' un-luckiest weekend, village engineer Jim Wren, who led the village's fight against fire, flood, lack of drinking water and backed-up sewage, has finally been persuaded to go to hospital and have his broken leg attended to. (See Page 7.)

Wren broke the leg when a support on an emergency pump twisted suddenly and hit him.

But it wasn't until 36 hours later—all of which Wren spent on his feet, mostly in his waders in the icy Bulkley river—that he was persuaded to let somebody put a cast on the leg.

400 Passengers

Nuclear Blimp New Liner in Sky?

By BRYAN SILCOCK

LONDON — What could carry 400 passengers and cargo across the Atlantic in 40 hours, provide staterooms with private baths, a cinema, a cocktail lounge and a 15-story ride by lift to "a ballroom beneath the skies," and go many times round the world without refuelling? Answer: A nuclear blimp.

Prof. Francis Morse, of Boston University and some colleagues have completed a design study of a giant nuclear-powered airship and conclude that for transporting light but bulky cargoes it would have unique advantages.

Nuclear power would give a big savings in weight, the reactor, its shielding, and the gas turbines would weigh less than the fuel alone of a conventionally powered airship.

In an article in the New Scientist he says of the big airships of the 'thirties: "They were not big enough, the largest lying just at the threshold of efficient performance." His 980-foot long design has almost twice the volume of the Hindenburg, and at over 80 tons, the payload is quadrupled. The use of a non-inflammable helium instead of hydrogen would rule out disastrous fires like the one that destroyed the Hindenburg.

Passenger a c accommodation and cargo space are inside the hull. Instead of suspended below it as in earlier airships, Propulsion is by two huge propellers at the tail. A cruising speed of 95 miles an hour compared with the Hindenburg's 78.

Thunderbirds raise 'welcome mat'

'Our Community—What's Its Future?'

DUNCAN—Members of the Cowichan Indian teen-age group, the Thunderbird Club, were busy Tuesday afternoon putting up welcome signs above the Cowichan Indian band's recreational hall where the first part of a three-day B.C. Indian homemakers' conference took place the same evening.

The first business session for the delegates from about 30 Indian homemakers' groups from all parts of B.C. will start today at the Troubadour Hotel.

A total of 150 delegates is expected to attend. Also attending are mothers from Alberta, Whitehorse and Tacoma. Today's workshop is on our community, what's its future?

Following the afternoon session, a dinner banquet will end the day. Delegates will return to their homes Thursday afternoon.

Upper Island

Record Numbers For Music Festival

NANAIMO—A record number of more than 800 entrants will participate in the annual Upper Island musical festival to be held for 10 days starting April 21.

There is an increase in piano and choir entries. A boys' choir from Uchelet has entered. Others are from French Creek and Port Alberni. Many local school and church choirs entered, including one from St. Ann's Convent in Nanaimo.

Galiano Parley

'From B.C. To B.C.'

GALIANO—This island, which was the scene of archaeological diggings in the summers of 1964 and 1965, will play host to the B.C. Historical Association conference, May 13, 14 and 15.

Opening night speaker is Donald H. Mitchell of the University of Victoria's department of anthropology and sociology, who led the expeditions.

Mr. Mitchell and a crew of six unearthed artifacts at Montague Harbor dating back to 1000 B.C.

VISIT TO DIGGINGS

The findings have provided provincial president Donald New of Galiano with the conference theme, From B.C. to B.C. A visit to the diggings will be a feature of the conference.

Other speakers at the three-day conference, hosted by the Gulf Islands branch, will be Education Minister Peterson; Willard Ireland, provincial archivist; and publisher Mrs. Margaret Murray of Lillooet.

ROYSTON—Residents of this water improvement district will have a second chance to accept a change in municipal status when they vote May 14.

At the annual meeting of the district held recently, trustees reported a second vote of the question of changing to a district municipality will be held next month.

The first vote on the matter was held Dec. 18 and defeated by a very small margin of votes. At that time trustees expressed surprise and regret over the defeat.

RECEIVED GRANT

Had a district municipality been accepted, water rates would have been reduced and the district would have received a large grant from the government.

Following defeat of the plebiscite, trustee Cec Harper resigned, stating he felt he was out of touch with the people and their wishes. At the annual meeting last week those present refused to accept the resignation.

Water rates in the area which were $5 per month are now $8.25. The rates in rates was made necessary to cover a deficit budget and to pay the interest and principal on district loans.

Trustee Fred C. Morrison resigned and was later appointed secretary-treasurer of the improvement district. Bryson Parrham and Cec Harper were re-elected as trustees and Jim Craig elected to fill the vacancy caused by Fred Morrison's resignation. John Richardson and Cy Newman are the other two trustees.

and thins your lawn in spring. It collects weeds before they spread over your lawn. To empty, you just snap off the bag and unroll.

Lawn-Boy starts easier, too. You use just two fingers and 94% less effort than old-fashioned heavy-and-head type mowers. And Lawn-Boy is war-

Retrievers On Trial

COBBLE HILL—Enthusiastic gun dog men from the mainland and Victoria joined local trainers at the Vancouver Island Retriever Club's trials for retrievers and water spaniels on Saturday.

The morning meeting was held on the property of Irwin Douglas with the dogs working over rough pasture and a water test across a small slough.

In the afternoon the scene moved to A. F. B. Webb's Hidden Meadows farm on Train Road, with open fields and a larger expanse of water.

The qualifying stakes drew 13 entries and the open 14.

Trekking arrive at Horne Lake along easy route after six-mile walk from Alberni side

Horne Road Trek Proves Success

PORT ALBERNI — Despite the weatherman's mixed offerings of rain, snow, hail and occasional sunshine, the trek on foot and by car to Horne Lake road was a success, according to George McKnight who organized the trip.

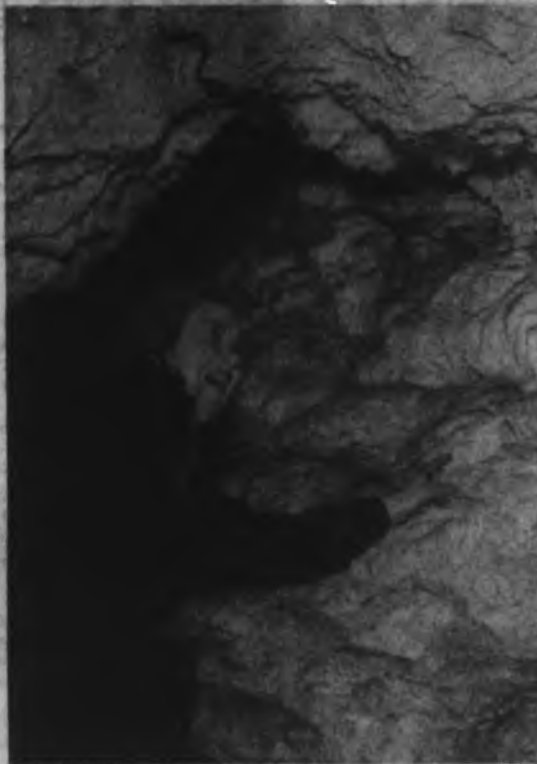

"We left the end of Milliken Road by 10 a.m.," he said and arrived at the Horne Lake caves by 12:35. Some others even made it by 11:30 but we took our time."

Approximately 70 went along the overland route on foot, by motorcycle, four-wheel drive cars and jeeps. Majority of the cars, however, took the route from the Qualicum Road along the cut-off by Horne Lake store. Mr. McKnight estimated about 100 people arrived by car.

"Personally, I was amazed by the caves," he said. "People had told me I'd be disappointed, but I certainly wasn't."

The trekkers were able to go in about 300 feet, provided they were not on the plump side, he said, as he described glassy-surfaced limestone formations within the caves. By flashlight, they could see other caves high above which appeared as large as those in which they stood. In some places it was necessary to stoop to move between the connecting openings, and many areas were a tight squeeze for stouter members of the party.

Mr. McKnight emphasized that the caves are no place for amateurs to go exploring unless equipped with proper lights and a knowledgeable "spokelink" in charge. Trek members were provided with mimeographed pamphlets headed Horne Lake which can be mailed to members of the legislature, the premier, or cabinet members, urging their support and action on the road immediately.

Nanaimo Holds Line Except for Schools

NANAIMO—Despite a record budget this year of $4,417,628 city council has not increased the general purposes tax rate.

It remains unchanged at 73.5 mills. On top of this school taxes are expected to be 27 mills, or an increase of two mills from last year.

At Tuesday night's council meeting the 1966 budget was officially adopted with few surprises.

Yellow Point Couple

Triplet Boys Born At Ladysmith

LADYSMITH — Triplet boys were born in Ladysmith General Hospital Tuesday morning to Mrs. Louise Nobles, 26, wife of Matthew Nobles, 30-year-old horse rancher of Yellow Point. The Nobles now have five sons and two daughters, the oldest aged nine.

The mother and her three new sons are reported to be "fine," according to Mrs. Agnes Nobles, 273 Hartsland, Victoria, Mr. Nobles' mother.

"Everybody was surprised," she said. "The doctor told my daughter-in-law that she could expect twins but the triplets were a surprise."

"This is all so sudden. They hadn't planned on having three children."

Mrs. Nobles said her son and his family just moved to Yellow Point from Burns Lake at Christmas.

B.C. Ferry Dispute Meeting Postponed; No New Date Set

A meeting to discuss the simmering B.C. Ferry workers dispute about summer shift schedules was postponed Tuesday at the request of Victoria lawyer Marney Stevenson.

Mrs. Stevenson represents several hundred ferry employees working out of the four main B.C. Ferry terminals, who have asked for appointment of a board of reference to hear their grievances.

She said she asked for postponement of a meeting between herself and a special provincial cabinet sub-committee because she had previously arranged to be in Vancouver Tuesday.

Provincial Secretary Black said no new date had been set for the talks, in which he, Resources Minister Williston and Public Works Minister Chant will represent the cabinet.

Mrs. Stevenson said that while she was willing to confer with the cabinet sub-committee about the issue, "I certainly wouldn't want it to take the place of a board of reference."

The ferry catering and deck crew, who have no union, are protesting shift schedules of 12 days on, three days off during the four-month summer season.

They want a board of reference to review the Jan. 28 findings of the Civil Service Commission that they should continue this year's work schedule and that the B.C. Ferry Authority should plan different schedules next year.

Alberni Hot In Daytime, Cold at Night

PORT ALBERNI — The weatherman decided the week before Easter was a good time to do his stuff, and he did.

Monday and Tuesday he tossed the sun out in full force, and came up with highs of 73 and 75 degrees, while dropping to below freezing—both nights, with 23 and 26 degree temperatures.

Wednesday he still maintained the high 60's by day, and high thirties by night. But by Good Friday, he ran out of sun, offering three rainy days for the holiday weekend, winding up on Monday with rain, hail, snow, and sunny spasms.

Tuesday morning, the holidays successfully dampened, the sun came out and showed every indication of continuing good weather.

Door-to-door magazine salesmen drew the ire of Ald. Peter McLoughlin. He said he had investigated complaints and found Maclean-Hunter agents were the culprits. He urged Nanaimo citizens to lodge their complaints in writing with City Hall.

LADYSMITH—Six teen-agers reported seeing an unidentified flying object at Ivy's Green Park about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The six frightened young people made their report to Constable William Armstrong of the RCMP detachment here.

ONE UNIDENTIFIED
The eyewitnesses were Gloria Partak, Marilyn Larson and an unidentified girl, all from Ladysmith; Dale Henderson and Alan Manke of Nanaimo, and John Aitken of Chemainus.

One of the boys said he saw a large bright light coming toward the car in which the group was parked. He said he watched it for a while but didn't say anything.

DREW CLOSER
As it grew closer and closer, he drew his companions' attention to it and they all watched it.

Suddenly the bright white light went out and the young people counted 14 evenly-spaced lights.

They watched the object move sideways at tree level about 100 yards away from them. It was moving slowly, they said.

TURN AROUND
They watched it for five or 10 seconds and then decided to turn the car around to get a better look at it. While the car was being moved, the lights in the object went out and the single bright light came on again.

The six teen-agers became alarmed at the approaching light and drove out of the park and straight to the Ladysmith RCMP detachment.

SIX SHAKEN
Constable Armstrong said they were shaken by their experience but he finally persuaded them to go back to the park with him.

The constable took a camera with him and they searched the

NEW DUNCAN ERA
DUNCAN—The City of Duncan entered a new era when two new aldermen—Thomas Kilpatrick and Homer Alex—were sworn in by Magistrate Lance Heard Tuesday night.

Since 1912, when Duncan became a city, the council has had four aldermen but now there are six.

A request from the Duncan Old Age Pensioners Association for a recreational building in this district was tabled for further study and Mayor Jack Dobson promised a delegation "we certainly will look into it."

G. W. Highmore of the association told council: "We believe that if the City of Duncan will set aside a space in the city centre for the exclusive use of the elderly people and all the details are sent to the deputy provincial secretary Laurie Wallace with a request for a grant, it could be obtained."

Another association spokesman John White said he heard if the city would give the land the senior governments under the urban renewal plan would put up the building.

IN FELLOWSHIP
He said many old people here have laid the cornerstone for the progress now and all they want is to spend the sunset of their lives in fellowship.

Mr. White added, "We do not ask you for money. All we want is to provide us with a piece of land."

Mayor Dobson replied, "We will pursue this avenue."

NOT SATISFIED
Ald. Robert Mason told council he is not satisfied with the work of the SPCA particularly under the recently-passed bylaw under which owners of stray dogs can be issued tickets.

He said there is no more need to impound or handle dogs. Mayor Dobson remarked "But you have to find out first to whom the dog belongs," and Ald. Mason replied neighbors would know but "they (SPCA) don't seem to make a great effort to find out."

Ald. Hamish Mutter said the inspector cannot be out all day and night and he has to get used to the new system.

Duncan's Fence Joins Courthouse Art Craze

DUNCAN—About a dozen artists from Crofton and Cowichan Valley art groups braved cold winds Tuesday morning to begin the task of dressing up the fence around the unfinished provincial courthouse at Duncan.

In the afternoon brilliant sun shone on an array of motifs ranging from distressed taxpayers to landscapes, seascapes and the historic stone church.

Duncan-Cowichan chamber of commerce president Sam Keeble commented "I wish the Victorians would come and have a look at our fence. The ladies here are doing a very good job."

He said there are still many panels to be decorated and "it would be wonderful if children would take part in this contest that is wide open to everyone."

Brda Search Continues In Strait

VANCOUVER (CP)—An air and sea search for G. J. Brda, 35, of Richmond, continued today after searchers found his rowboat Monday night.

Brda, missing on a fishing trip, now is believed drowned, RCMP said Tuesday.

The rowboat was found upright and undamaged on a beach on Salt Spring Island in the Georgia Strait.

The coast guard cutter Ready, several small boats and a private plane searched all day Monday for the Richmond man, who left in the rowboat Sunday to fish near the island.

Desire to Retire Strengthened

By LOUIS B. FLEMING
UNITED NATIONS (LAT) — Secretary General U Thant is unusually depressed and discouraged about the world situation and the peacekeeping role of the United Nations.
His depression has strengthened his desire to retire from the world organization when his term expires in November, but he will reserve his decision until June.
However, most of his colleagues expect him to bow to the realities of the situation and agree to continue as secretary general.
He is particularly discouraged now by two old problems and one new one:
• The inability to make a constructive move toward settling the war in Viet Nam, which he regards as the ultimate problem.
• The postponement by the French of a voluntary contribution to the United Nations, although there may be second thoughts in Paris when Thant sees President Charles de Gaulle on April 30.

• The failure of UN peacekeeping missions to achieve political solutions, particularly in Cyprus.

Thant hinted broadly at his depression in his press conference last week. It was a demure affair. He appeared almost apathetic on some issues, spoke quite frankly about his failures in three years of peace efforts in Southeast Asia and spoke with particular conviction when he said he would be glad to step aside if another secretary general could be found.

Next Move To Be Buddhist

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP)—The next move in South Viet Nam's political struggle appears to be up to the Buddhists. There is little doubt the Buddhists are ready to make it, perhaps as a show of force.

The military government pledged Tuesday to hold elections for a civilian regime as soon as a constitution is drafted and the voting machinery set up. But the Buddhists boycotted the preparatory congress at which the offer was made.

HALF DELEGATES

Only 92 delegates, roughly half the number invited, showed up.

Knowledgeable political quarters said there is no indication the congress opened the way for any solution.
NO CONFIDENCE
Before boycotting the congress, leaders of the unified Buddhist struggle group declared they have no confidence in promises of the military government headed by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and Nguyen Van Thieu, chiefs of state.

PROCEDURE TAKES TIME

The Buddhists are demanding the election of a civilian government "in a very short time." The military leaders have said they are willing to turn over power to an elected, representative government, but that working out the procedures and holding elections will take time.

IN SIX MONTHS

Top government officials talk in terms of completing such action in six months. There is no indication the Buddhists are willing to wait that long.
Addressing the opening session of the congress, Thieu said:
"If the people want to have an elected government in the shortest time possible, this desire is also ours."
"It is not our policy to go against the aspirations of the people."

Red Chinese Pilots Down U.S. Plane

TOKYO (AP)—China accused the United States today of aerial attacks on Chinese fishing boats and said its air force downed a U.S. military aircraft over the Chinese mainland.
In Washington, the defense department announced a U.S. Navy KA-3B tanker plane was overdue on a flight from the Philippines to South Viet Nam, but did not refer to the Chinese claim. The terse U.S. announcement did not acknowledge the plane was lost.

A broadcast by the official New China news agency said the U.S. aircraft, described as an KA-3B attack plane, was downed Tuesday. It made no mention of crew.
The KA-3B normally has a crew of three.
Peking said the U.S. plane was shot down over Lichow Peninsula, Kwangtung Province, which faces North Viet Nam across the Gulf of Tonkin.
U.S. defense department sources said if the tanker plane

Whooping Cranes Head for Canada

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The interior department said Tuesday that 43 of the 44 whooping cranes in the world's last live flock have left the Aransas Wildlife Refuge on the Texas Gulf coast for their summer nesting grounds near Canada's Great Slave Lake.

The department said the lone crane that failed to take off with about 14 of his companions was sighted on Matagorda Island, adjacent to Aransas. The bird, named Searneck because of the irregular arrangement of his sparse neckfeathers, is an individualist.

Hibernation Coming for Man?

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A space scientist reported Tuesday that new experiments with hibernating hamsters raise hope for eventually inducing temporary hibernation powers in man—for long space voyages and for food conservation during times of famine.
Dr. R. R. Chaffee of the University of Missouri's Space Science Research Centre also said that an ability to make men go into hibernation and slow their bodies' demands by cooling them could greatly extend the time available for surgeons in performing critical operations.
He told about it in a report to the opening of the convention of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology—a convocation of nearly 20,000 scientists.
Declaring the Syrian hamster is the only inbred hibernating laboratory animal—but that not all of them have such powers—Dr. Chaffee told of genetic experiments in which the ability to hibernate gradually was increased over several genera-

Leg Up At Last In Smithers

SMITHERS (CP)—One of the heroes of Smithers' unluckiest weekend, village on-glider Jim Wren, who led the village's fight against fire, flood, lack of drinking water and backed-up sewage, has finally been persuaded to go to hospital and have his broken leg attended to. (See Page 7.)
Wren broke the leg when a support on an emergency pump twisted suddenly and bit him.
But it wasn't until 36 hours later—all of which Wren spent on his feet, mostly in hip waders in the icy Bulkley river—that he was persuaded to let somebody put a cast on the leg.

Nuclear Blimp New Liner in Sky?

By BRYAN SILCOCK
LONDON — What could carry 400 passengers and cargo across the Atlantic in 40 hours, provide staterooms with private baths, a cinema, a cocktail lounge and a 15-story ride by lift to "a ballroom beneath the skies," and go many times round the world without refuelling?
Answer: A nuclear blimp.

IOANNA PUMPS ITS OIL

BEIRA, Mozambique (Reuters)—The Greek tanker Ioanna V will begin pumping half of its oil into storage tanks here today, informed shipping sources said.

The sources said it was intended to pump the oil into the new storage tanks being built in the dock area and not directly into the 183-mile pipeline leading from Beira to Rhodesia's Umtali refinery.

There was no official confirmation here that the Ioanna, focal point of Britain's efforts to prevent oil from reaching breakaway Rhodesia, would begin discharging its cargo.

RUSH TANKS

But the sources said an all-out effort was being made to finish construction of the dock storage tanks to accommodate 9,500 tons of the Ioanna's 18,000-ton cargo of crude oil.

A tight security net was thrown around the ship as the Panamanian flag was run up and English lettering of the vessel's name painted on the bow over the Greek symbols.

GREECE ACTS

The Ioanna-33 berthed here Monday after riding at anchor in the harbor for a week. The Greek government cancelled her registration because she came to this Portuguese African port despite international sanctions aimed at keeping land-locked Rhodesia from getting oil.

The sanctions were applied against Rhodesia after the white-minority-ruled British colony seized independence Nov. 11.

SEARCH FOR VALVE

Reliable sources here said a search was on for a reduction valve which would connect the Ioanna V to the 183-mile pipeline across Mozambique to Rhodesia and allow the ship to discharge her cargo.

In Panama City, however, the Panama foreign ministry announced Tuesday night it was

City Pilot Killed

By BOB FETHICK

A young Victoria pilot who survived a plane crash at Qualicum in 1963 is dead, and the girl who survived with him is his widow following a plane crash Monday near Port Hardy.

Dead in the Monday's crash are pilot James McLellan, 25, formerly of Victoria, J. G. Hays, 35, president of Nalos Lumber Ltd., Vancouver, George McEwen, director and manager of the company, and Geoffrey payload is quadrupled. The use of non-inflammable helium instead of hydrogen would rule out disastrous fires like the one that destroyed the Hindenburg.

Passenger a Commodation

Passenger a commodation and cargo space are inside the hull, instead of suspended below it as in earlier airships. Propulsion is by two huge propellers at the tail. A cruising speed of 85 miles an hour compared with the Hindenburg's 78.

Inside the hull there is also hangar space for an 18-seater aircraft for ferrying passengers to and from the airship while it is in full flight—an idea pioneered by the U.S. Navy 25 years ago.

"For low density freight such as small aircraft, motor cars and other bulky manufactured equipment, the airship would offer lowest per ton-mile costs between factory and destination," says Prof. Morse. The reactor, claims the professor, could be made strong enough to withstand a crash without releasing dangerous radioactive products.
